Woman Tells Of Stabbing Sharon Tate

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Susan Atkins, in a dramatic witness stand confession, has declared it was she who stabbed actress Sharon Tate and used the victim's blood to scrawl the word "pig" on a door during a nightmarish mass slaughter.

"I killed her, I stabbed her and she fell," Miss Atkins said. "And I stabbed her again. I don't know how many times I stabbed her and I don't know why I stabbed her."

Dark-haired Miss Atkins, 22, her voice husky and sometimes tearful, told jurors Tuesday that members of Charles Manson's hippie-style clan—two of them "stoned" on drugs—stabbed and shot the pregnant Miss Tate and four visitors.

She also said she was the killer of a Malibu musician the previous month.

"I didn't even know these people," she sighed incredulously as she vividly recounted the killings at the Tate mansion.

"She kept pleading with me, 'Please don't kill me.' And I said, 'Shut up. I don't want to hear it.'

"I threw her down on the couch. She said, 'All I want to do is have my baby.'

"Tex came in and looked down at her and said 'Kill her,' and I killed her."

Charles "Tex" Watson, a member of Manson's clan, was described by another witness at the murder trial as Manson's chief lieutenant in two murder missions—to Miss Tate's hilltop mansion the night of Aug. 9, 1969 and to the home of market owner Leno LaBianca and his wife the next night.

Watson is to stand trial separately.

Miss Atkins, the first defendant to take the stand in the nearly eight-month trial, told her story at the penalty phase in which the jury must decide on life imprisonment or death for the convicted clan leader and three women codefendants, of whom she is one.

She told the jury:

—She was under the influence of LSD and Watson was on the drug STP at the time of the slayings.

—The state's star witness, Linda Kasabian, was the true planner of the killings, choosing the Tate home because she had tried to buy drugs there once and was "burned" by people who took her money.

—Miss Atkins—not convicted Robert Beausoleil, 22—killed musician Gary Hinman a few weeks before the Tate slayings. She said "I did it for love" because Hinman had threatened Manson.

—Defendant Leslie Van Houten, 21, went along on the Hinman killing and later went to the LaBianca mission.

Miss Atkins said the motive for the Tate-LaBianca slayings was to confuse police, who had Beausoleil in custody. To do this, she said, the group copied the style of the Hinman killing, marked by bloody wall scrawlings.

Lon Nol Said Suffering Illness

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodian Premier Lon Nol's doctors have ordered him to give up all official duties temporarily amid rumors that he will resign.

A communique on page five of the official news agency bulletin said today: "On medical recommendations, Gen. Lon Nol, president of the Council of Ministers, must suspend temporarily all activities in order to get a medical examination and treatment."

A source close to Col. Lon Non, the premier's younger brother, said Lon Nol was expected to be out for about a month.

Vice Premier Sisowath Sirik Matak will serve as acting premier, the source said. Lon Nol also is Cambodia's defense minister.

Rumors have circulated in Phnom Penh for several weeks that Lon Nol would resign. They have been published in local newspaper editorials during the past week.

Diplomatic sources reported that the premier is ailing, but the nature of his illness was not known.

"We are told he is not seriously ill but is ill enough so that he must stop work for a while," a Western diplomat said. "We are quite satisfied that the problem is a medical one."

OAU Raps Sanctions

THE HAGUE (AP) — The Organization of African Unity today opposed sanctions against South Africa because it will not free the territory of South-West Africa.

Representing the OAU before the International Court of Justice, Taslim Elias of Nigeria said sanctions would mean the expulsion of South Africa from the U.N. General Assembly, and this would mean abandonment of South-West Africa to South Africa forever.

The U.N. Charter contains provisions for sanctions against countries such as South Africa which refuse to comply with the world organization's decisions. The General Assembly has ruled that the territory it has renamed Namibia should be administered by the United Nations.

Elias said expulsion of South Africa "would be like asking to throw away the baby with the bath water." He said South Africa "might even welcome expulsion as a way out."

Elias proposed that the court let the General Assembly or the Security Council decide what action to take concerning Namibia.

3 Missing In Chemical Plant Blast

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — An explosion which shook a 27-block area and shattered windows for miles around ripped through a chemical plant early today. Three persons were missing. Four others sustained minor injuries.

Among the three missing was Walter Gilewicz of Irvington, N.J., owner of the Radon Chemical Corp., where the blast occurred.

The company foreman said Gilewicz and two employes, Mark Marcianick and Gene Sowul, both of Jersey City, were believed to have been in the plant at the time of the blast.

Police said the cause of the explosion had not been determined.

The plant's two brick buildings were destroyed. The firm manufactures chemicals used in making penicillin.

Four persons from homes adjacent to the chemical company were taken to St. James Hospital for treatment and were released. They suffered shock and cuts.

Claim Illegal Work Stoppage

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland officials have charged some 500 city water service employes with an illegal work stoppage because they refused to work Tuesday when temperatures fell below 10 degrees.

Local 100 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes said it had an agreement with the city allowing the workers to stay off the job except for emergencies in such temperatures.

City Personnel Director Walter A. Burks said no such agreement existed. He said other city workers were expected to work in bad weather and "we cannot make any exception for the Divison of Water."

Final Fighting Came At Services For 2 Persons

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Belfast was free of bombing and gunfire Tuesday night for the first night in a week as Northern Ireland's embattled government considered whether to prohibit potentially inflammatory funeral processions.

Fighting broke out during the day Tuesday as the coffins of two fallen Roman Catholics were drawn through Protestant districts, the Irish Republic tricolor covering them and Irish Republican Army members in black berets in escort.

Angry Protestants snatched the flag from one coffin and hurled bricks and bottles at the other one. A policeman was clubbed to the ground before other security forces could intervene.

Prime Minister James Chichester-Clark announced that his government is considering emergency regulations to insure that corteges "cannot with impunity be given the features of provocative political displays."

Thaw Set For Ohio; South Cold

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A thaw of the millions of tons of snow dumped on Ohio during Monday's storm is expected to begin Wednesday afternoon and extend through the weekend, with temperatures soaring to the 40sin the north and the lower 50s in the south by Friday.

This was the National Weather Service forecast as people in most areas of the state resumed normal schedules after interruption by what the service said was the heaviest February snowfall in some parts of Ohio this century. Foot-deep snow was reported in scattered districts.

Most schools in the state had reopened Wednesday, particularly in urban areas. Scattered rural schools remained closed because snowdrifts had halted school bus service.

Most major thoroughfares both in cities and in rural areas were back to normal.

Arctic cold stung wide areas of the South today and sent a wave of topcoat temperatures deep into Florida.

Thermometer levels fell to zero as far south as Tennessee well before daybreak. Readings in the middle and lower teens ranged from Mississippi through the Carolinas.

Frost whitened northern and central sections of Florida. Winter vacationers faced early-morning temperatures in the low 40s and upper 30s in the Miami area.

The chill extended up the Eastern Seaboard to New England and west through the entire Mississippi Valley.

A warming trend fanned out of the Southwest, through the Rockies and onto the Plains. The temperature hit 54 Tuesday in Denver and remained above freezing far into the night.

ABOARD USS NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Apollo 14's moon heroes healthy and snug in a quarantine trailer, steamed aboard this carrier toward Samoa today after safely completing man's third lunar landing mission.

From Samoa they'll be flown to the Manned Spacecraft Center near Houston, arriving early Friday. They'll get a glimpse of their families, then continue their isolation against possible moon germs until Feb. 26.

Alan B. Shepard Jr., Edgar D. Mitchell and Stuart A. Roosa parachuted to a precision landing in the South Pacific Tuesday, climaxing a lunar voyage which scientists say will greatly enrich man's knowledge of the moon and space agency officials hail as perfect.

The spacemen hit the gentle tropic waters less than four miles from this helicopter carrier and quickly were hoisted aboard by helicopter. They were just seven-tenths of a mile from the landing target.

Hundreds of white-clad sailors cheered and snapped pictures, "Welcome Apollo 14" banners unfurled and a band played "Stars and Stripes Forever" as the three smiling spacemen walked smartly from the copter to the quarantine trailer.

On the remote possibility that they returned harmful germs from he moon, Shepard, Mitchell and Roosa wore protective masks that prevented their exhaling into the surrounding atmospher.e

Dr. William Carpentier, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration flight surgeon who is in the quarantine van with them, reported that a preliminary medical examination showed them all to be in good health.

Also in the trailer is R. H. Culbertson, a NASA engineer who maintains the van systems and helps with cooking and other chores.

After retrieving the astronauts, the New Orleans set sail for Samoa, 880 miles to the north. When the ship is in helicopter range, about noon EST Thursday, the spacemen will be flown to Pago Pago, where they'll transfer into a quarantine van aboard an Air Force transport plane.

The aircraft will ferry them to Houston's Ellington Air Force Base arriving at 1:30 a.m. Friday. They will go to the Lunar Receiving Laboratory at the Manned Spacecraft Center to complete the 21-day quarantine period that began the day Shepard and Mitchell left the moon.

The lunar rocks they gathered in the ancient Fra Mauro highlands will go into another section of the laboratory, where scientists eagerly wait to start examination that will take months or years.

Scientists believe the moon walkers may have gathered primordial rocks dating back 4.6 billion years to the creation of the moon.

Scientists hope study of these rocks will unlock many secrets

Ky Threatens North Viets As Drive In Laos Widens

SAIGON (AP) — Two thousand more South Vietnamese troops crossed into Laos today, and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky threatened a drive into North Vietnam.

U.S. and South Vietnamese helicopters lifted the fresh Saigon troops across the border, raising the number in southern Laos to more than 10,000, field reports said.

Vietnam Press, the government's news agency, quoted Ky as saying that if necessary South Vietnamese forces may cross the 17th parallel into North Vietnam to flush out supply bases in the area.

The agency said Ky made the threat in accepting a gift from Vietnamese pilots who took part in the first bombing of North Vietnam in 1965. Ky is also commander of the South Vietnamese air force and a native of North Vietnam.

Informed sources said several battalions of the South Vietnamese force that pushed into Laos Monday had advanced along east-west Route 9 to areas north and south of Sepone, a main North Vietnamese transshipment point and base area on the Ho Chi Minh trail.

The town 25 miles from the Vietnamese border has been reported virtually deserted, and there were no immediate reports of any fighting there. Nor was there any word of what the South Vietnamese found in the way of enemy supplies. The aim of the operation is to choke off the North Vietnamese troops and supplies moving down the network of jungle trails to South Vietnam and Cambodia.

Dispute Over GI Strength In Vietnam Is Explained

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of U.S. ground-combat troops remaining in South Vietnam after May 1 is likely to total more than 100,000 men, rather than the 40,000 to 45,000 predicted by the White House.

The difference lies in the way the term "ground-combat troops," or infantrymen, is used.

The White House appears to distinguish between such troops when they are assigned a formal ground-combat responsibility and when, in a security role, they are safeguarding American air, artillery and logistics elements supporting the South Vietnamese army.

The distinction was made Tuesday by White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler when he confirmed President Nixon has been projecting the 40,000 to 45,000 ground-combat figure by May 1 in briefings connected with new allied attacks on enemy bases in Laos.

Ziegler said the figure does not include infantry security forces protecting American bases.

With little apparent success, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has been trying since last spring to prepare the nation for the continued presence of a substantial number of U.S. ground-combat troops in Vietnam after the fighting is handed over to the South Vietnamese, probably by midsummer.

Laird had said the second phase of the administration's Vietnamization program—in which the American military will play only a supporting role for the South Vietnamese—"does anticipate that combat forces will remain in Vietnam."

As Laird explained:

"They will be assigned a security mission in order to protect the safety and security of the American forces that are remaining in a support role.

"I would assume that the security forces would constitute from 45 to 50 per cent of the forces left in Phase II . . . ."

Assuming the combat mission is transferred fully to the South Vietnamese by July 1, U.S. forces are expected to be reduced to 260,000 or fewer, including as many as 130,000 combat soldiers in a security role.

Shifting the combat role to the South Vietnamese would mean remaining U.S. units would no longer be assigned tactical areas of responsibility but would protect artillery fire-support bases, military airfields used by American planes and supply depots.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A proposed 7.5-mill additional school levy was defeated Tuesday in a special election in suburban Tallmadge.

Voters in the suburb turned down an 8.6-mill levy three times last year. School bus service for junior and senior high school pupils has been curtailed for the past month.

Authorities Watch Cracked Reservoir

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Authorities kept a wary eye on a cracked reservoir dam and probed wreckage of a ruined hospital for bodies today in the wake of an earthquake that dealt death and destruction to Southern California.

Forty-two deaths were reported, nine of them heart attack victims. More than 1,000 persons were reported injured.

Officials said 25 persons were missing, some buried in the rubble of two collapsed buildings at a Veterans Administration hospital in the hard-hit west end of the populous San Fernando Valley.

Twenty-three bodies had been found in the hospital wreckage; 45 persons were rescued.

So heavy and so interlocked were huge chunks of concrete from the virtually leveled three-story structures that rescuers said it might be another day or more before all victims could be reached.

Although cries of "Help me! Help me!" could be heard Tuesday night, authorities said there was little likelihood of more survivors being found. The bodies of five persons were extricated in the night and early morning hours.

The shock at 6:01 a.m. Tuesday was centered 26 miles northwest of downtown Los Angeles, crumpled much of the concrete facing on the 150-foot-high dam of Van Norman Lakes, the city's largest reservoir, and cracked its main structure of earth fill.

As water experts began draining it, police ordered a forced evacuation Tuesday night of some 80,000 persons in a 20-square-mile area of the San Fernando Valley which would be in the path of flood waters should the dam break. Officials said that barring a strong new aftershock, it should hold.

The initial shock and lesser aftershocks caused damage likely to be reckoned ultimately in the hundreds of millions. Hundreds of commercial buildings and factories were damaged, along with uncounted homes, highways, bridges and public buildings. Los Angeles County estimated loss to its buildings alone of $125 million, with 427 damaged structurally and 42 evacuated.

Gov. Ronald Reagan surveyed the damage and said, "It's shocking. When you look at this you feel pretty helpless."

Robert E. Noel, a custodian at the threatened reservoir dam, was at his home near the base of the structure when the quake hit.

"It was thumpin' and jumpin' and knocked everything out of our kitchen," he said. "It didn't matter where I put my feet, the floor wasn't there."

A big cleanup already was under way. In downtown Los Angeles and in communities in the San Fernando Valley, whose western edge is but 10 miles from the quake's center, the glass and bricks and crumbled mortar that littered streets and yards were being scooped up and carted away.

Several major freeways remained closed because of crumpled paving or fallen overpasses.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With streets buckled, cracked and potholed, authorities were unable to barricade all motoring hazards on some of the less-damaged streets. But they had plenty of help after Tuesday's earthquake.

Residents placed lawn and patio furniture in streets as warnings and in one area long-haired young men wearing peace-symbol sweat shirts fashioned barriers from pieces of wood.

"Man, the best way is to fly," came the reply.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken called today on the nations of Southeast Asia to convene their own international conference, in Asia to bring peace to the Indochinese nations of Laos, Cambodia and Vietnam.

He suggested that Russia take part in the conference.

Aiken, of Vermont, the senior Republican in both the Senate and its Foreign Relations Committee, said: "Formal peace among the parties in Indochina will only come as a result of agreement among themselves.

"It cannot be imposed by others," he told the Senate.

Noting various past U.S. and British peace initiatives, Aiken said "the day has passed when the major problems of Asia can be settled in some European city."

Aiken said the conference he seeks should include Japan, Communist China and Russia, adding "I cannot believe that Russia has of late had a vested interest in keeping up the conflict in Indochina."

Shortly before Aiken took the Senate floor to deliver his new appeal, Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., charged that "the invasion of Laos makes clear that President Nixon has transformed a one-front war into a three-front war.

"He inherited a war in Vietnam, now he pursues that same war in all of Indochina," the South Dakota Democrat told a news conference called to announce introduction in the House of his proposal to withdraw all U.S. forces from Indochina by Dec. 31. The proposal is already pending in the Senate.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., announced reintroduction of his proposal to provide specific procedures under which an American president can commit U.S. troops abroad in the absence of a declaration of war.

It would provide that the troops be withdrawn if Congress failed to approve the action within a given period of time.

However Secretary of State William P. Rogers, after telling the committee Tuesday the current South Vietnamese invasion of Laos will help speed U.S. withdrawal, said such a declaration is unnecessary.

The lunar rocks they gathered in the ancient Fra Mauro highlands will go into another section of the laboratory, where scientists eagerly wait to start examination that will take months or years.

Scientists believe the moon walkers may have gathered primordial rocks dating back 4.6 billion years to the creation of the moon.

Scientists hope study of these rocks will unlock many secrets

Ky Threatens North Viets As Drive In Laos Widens

SAIGON (AP) — Two thousand more South Vietnamese troops crossed into Laos today, and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky threatened a drive into North Vietnam.

U.S. and South Vietnamese helicopters lifted the fresh Saigon troops across the border, raising the number in southern Laos to more than 10,000, field reports said.

Vietnam Press, the government's news agency, quoted Ky as saying that if necessary South Vietnamese forces may cross the 17th parallel into North Vietnam to flush out supply bases in the area.

The agency said Ky made the threat in accepting a gift from Vietnamese pilots who took part in the first bombing of North Vietnam in 1965. Ky is also commander of the South Vietnamese air force and a native of North Vietnam.

Informed sources said several battalions of the South Vietnamese force that pushed into Laos Monday had advanced along east-west Route 9 to areas north and south of Sepone, a main North Vietnamese transshipment point and base area on the Ho Chi Minh trail.

The town 25 miles from the Vietnamese border has been reported virtually deserted, and there were no immediate reports of any fighting there. Nor was there any word of what the South Vietnamese found in the way of enemy supplies. The aim of the operation is to choke off the North Vietnamese troops and supplies moving down the network of jungle trails to South Vietnam and Cambodia.

Dispute Over GI Strength In Vietnam Is Explained

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of U.S. ground-combat troops remaining in South Vietnam after May 1 is likely to total more than 100,000 men, rather than the 40,000 to 45,000 predicted by the White House.

The difference lies in the way the term "ground-combat troops," or infantrymen, is used.

The White House appears to distinguish between such troops when they are assigned a formal ground-combat responsibility and when, in a security role, they are safeguarding American air, artillery and logistics elements supporting the South Vietnamese army.

The distinction was made Tuesday by White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler when he confirmed President Nixon has been projecting the 40,000 to 45,000 ground-combat figure by May 1 in briefings connected with new allied attacks on enemy bases in Laos.

Ziegler said the figure does not include infantry security forces protecting American bases.

With little apparent success, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has been trying since last spring to prepare the nation for the continued presence of a substantial number of U.S. ground-combat troops in Vietnam after the fighting is handed over to the South Vietnamese, probably by midsummer.

Laird had said the second phase of the administration's Vietnamization program—in which the American military will play only a supporting role for the South Vietnamese—"does anticipate that combat forces will remain in Vietnam."

As Laird explained:

"They will be assigned a security mission in order to protect the safety and security of the American forces that are remaining in a support role.

"I would assume that the security forces would constitute from 45 to 50 per cent of the forces left in Phase II . . . ."

Assuming the combat mission is transferred fully to the South Vietnamese by July 1, U.S. forces are expected to be reduced to 260,000 or fewer, including as many as 130,000 combat soldiers in a security role.

Shifting the combat role to the South Vietnamese would mean remaining U.S. units would no longer be assigned tactical areas of responsibility but would protect artillery fire-support bases, military airfields used by American planes and supply depots.

Solons Push Total Viet Pullout

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken called today on the nations of Southeast Asia to convene their own international conference, in Asia to bring peace to the Indochinese nations of Laos, Cambodia and Vietnam.

He suggested that Russia take part in the conference.

Aiken, of Vermont, the senior Republican in both the Senate and its Foreign Relations Committee, said: "Formal peace among the parties in Indochina will only come as a result of agreement among themselves.

"It cannot be imposed by others," he told the Senate.

Noting various past U.S. and British peace initiatives, Aiken said "the day has passed when the major problems of Asia can be settled in some European city."

Aiken said the conference he seeks should include Japan, Communist China and Russia, adding "I cannot believe that Russia has of late had a vested interest in keeping up the conflict in Indochina."

Shortly before Aiken took the Senate floor to deliver his new appeal, Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., charged that "the invasion of Laos makes clear that President Nixon has transformed a one-front war into a three-front war.

"He inherited a war in Vietnam, now he pursues that same war in all of Indochina," the South Dakota Democrat told a news conference called to announce introduction in the House of his proposal to withdraw all U.S. forces from Indochina by Dec. 31. The proposal is already pending in the Senate.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., announced reintroduction of his proposal to provide specific procedures under which an American president can commit U.S. troops abroad in the absence of a declaration of war.

It would provide that the troops be withdrawn if Congress failed to approve the action within a given period of time.

However Secretary of State William P. Rogers, after telling the committee Tuesday the current South Vietnamese invasion of Laos will help speed U.S. withdrawal, said such a declaration is unnecessary.

"The President has already

Authorities Watch Cracked Reservoir

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Authorities kept a wary eye on a cracked reservoir dam and probed wreckage of a ruined hospital for bodies today in the wake of an earthquake that dealt death and destruction to Southern California.

Forty-two deaths were reported, nine of them heart attack victims. More than 1,000 persons were reported injured.

Officials said 25 persons were missing, some buried in the rubble of two collapsed buildings at a Veterans Administration hospital in the hard-hit west end of the populous San Fernando Valley.

Twenty-three bodies had been found in the hospital wreckage; 45 persons were rescued.

So heavy and so interlocked were huge chunks of concrete from the virtually leveled three-story structures that rescuers said it might be another day or more before all victims could be reached.

Although cries of "Help me! Help me!" could be heard Tuesday night, authorities said there was little likelihood of more survivors being found. The bodies of five persons were extricated in the night and early morning hours.

The shock at 6:01 a.m. Tuesday was centered 26 miles northwest of downtown Los Angeles, crumpled much of the concrete facing on the 150-foot-high dam of Van Norman Lakes, the city's largest reservoir, and cracked its main structure of earth fill.

As water experts began draining it, police ordered a forced evacuation Tuesday night of some 80,000 persons in a 20-square-mile area of the San Fernando Valley which would be in the path of flood waters should the dam break. Officials said that barring a strong new aftershock, it should hold.

The initial shock and lesser aftershocks caused damage likely to be reckoned ultimately in the hundreds of millions. Hundreds of commercial buildings and factories were damaged, along with uncounted homes, highways, bridges and public buildings. Los Angeles County estimated loss to its buildings alone of $125 million, with 427 damaged structurally and 42 evacuated.

Gov. Ronald Reagan surveyed the damage and said, "It's shocking. When you look at this you feel pretty helpless."

Robert E. Noel, a custodian at the threatened reservoir dam, was at his home near the base of the structure when the quake hit.

"It was thumpin' and jumpin' and knocked everything out of our kitchen," he said. "It didn't matter where I put my feet, the floor wasn't there."

A big cleanup already was under way. In downtown Los Angeles and in communities in the San Fernando Valley, whose western edge is but 10 miles from the quake's center, the glass and bricks and crumbled mortar that littered streets and yards were being scooped up and carted away.

Several major freeways remained closed because of crumpled paving or fallen overpasses.

Residents Help In L.A. Cleanup

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With streets buckled, cracked and potholed, authorities were unable to barricade all motoring hazards on some of the less-damaged streets. But they had plenty of help after Tuesday's earthquake.

Residents placed lawn and patio furniture in streets as warnings and in one area long-haired young men wearing peace-symbol sweat shirts fashioned barriers from pieces of wood.

"What's the best way to get back to Los Angeles?" a newsman asked one hippie-type in the San Fernando Valley.

"Man, the best way is to fly," came the reply.

NFO Claims 'Hog-Lift' Operation Is Success

Don Conrad, president of Pickaway County National Farmers Organization, said, "The NFO hog "lift" and other activities of the NFO collective bargaining program raised the price of hogs three to four dollars per hundredweight when we had a lot more hogs this year than last year and proved that united farmer action is effective."

The NFO hog lift refers to moving hogs some distance, shifting them out of the ordinary market channels.

For example 60,000 hogs were moved out of the state of Iowa to California during a one week period in an effort to make local buyers bid more for hogs to supply local demands.

The same idea was carried out in Pickaway County with hogs being shipped into Pennsylvania and New York.

The NFO started preparations for its hog "lift" at its December convention in Louisville, Kentucky, then followed with a convoy of trucks in Washington, D. C., which showed farmers receiving 15 cents per pound for hogs while the consumer was still paying about the same price for pork as when farmers were receiving 25 to 28 cents per pound for hogs.

The build-up for the NFO hog "lift" started the first part of January and then the big push of the hog "lift" started Jan. 25 and was officially suspended at 8 p.m. Feb. 2. The price of hogs in most markets went up every day the big push was on.

The NFO county president said, "This was our greatest market action victory. It proved that farmers moving their production in massive volumes into new marketing patterns could dramatically raise prices in spite of heavy supplies and when no one expected the prices to go up. According to USDA figures 1,612,000 more hogs were slaughtered in January 1971 over January 1970. This was a tremendous increase of 27 per cent. We have proven our point and now it's up to farmers to unite their strength through the NFO so more gains can be made.

"The NFO suspended the hog "lift" so we can turn the three to four dollar price rise of hogs into organizational strength. Farmers have seen what can be done. Our ability to get fair production in massive volumes and proportion of farmers who join us and participate in our collective bargaining program. We must have the largest possible participation and we are going to take time out temporarily to enroll new members and increase our ability to show what united farmer action can attain."

Pickaway County NFO will be holding informational meetings for non-members to explain how the NFO now has the scope, experience and structure to raise farm prices. All non-members will be invited to attend.

Four Area Boys Ordered To OYC

During recent Juvenile Court sessions, four Circleville youths were ordered to the Ohio Youth Commission as permanent wards.

One 17-year-old was sent away for school truancy and being incorrigible. Earlier he had pleaded guilty and underwent psychiatric examination. He had a previous record and was on probation in the court.

Two boys, 16 and 17, were before Judge Guy Cline on theft charges — of an auto and a gun. The younger was charged by city police with taking a gun from a Columbus man and selling it to a local man for $6. The older boy, who has quite an extensive record with the court, was found guilty of taking a car owned by James Grant and driving to Pittsburgh, Pa., using Grant's credit cards to purchase food, clothing and lodging. Previously on parole from the OYC for two other incidents of auto theft, the youth was returned there.

On probation for school truancy, a 15-year-old Circleville Junior High youngster was sent to the Youth Commission for excessive absence from classes. A second youth was placed on probation for 3 years and placed in detention for one weekend on a similar charge, his first offense.

A Laurelville boy found guilty of breaking and entering the Kerr Sinclair Station in Laurelville, was sentenced to the Ohio Youth Commission His sentence was suspended three months for a case review.

A Route 2, Circleville boy, 17, was found guilty of consuming alcoholic beverages at a downtown pizza parlor and placed on probation for three years. A 16-year-old with him was apprehended by liquor control agents for purchasing beer and received a similar probation. Both boys are to complete 50 hours of community work.

Charles J. Clark Jr., Groveport, received a suspended $20 fine and 30 day loss of driving privileges for speeding 90 in a 60 mile zone.

Two Circleville boys, both 17, had $10 fines suspended and lost their drivers licenses for 30 days for driving 45 in a 35 mile area.

ported two fights today across the border along Route 9. A spokesman said 33 North Vietnamese and six South Vietnamese were killed and 17 South Vietnamese were wounded.

The spokesman said the fighting occurred inside Laos southwest and west of Lang Vei but gave no distances.

Vietnamese casualties since the operation began Monday now total 55 North Vietnamese and 18 Saigon troops killed and 56 South Vietnamese wounded, headquarters said.

The U.S. Command made a belated announcement that a second UH1 helicopter was shot down Monday in southern Laos while supporting the initial drive across the border. A spokesman said two wounded American crewmen were rescued and two are missing.

Four Americans were killed in the crash announced earlier.

Meanwhile, the South Vietnamese command shifted forces to the northeast corner of South Vietnam to guard against any enemy push across that part of the demilitarized zone in retaliation for the South Vietnamese drive into Laos.

The Saigon government said 3,000 to 5,000 of its troops had been moved into the region around Dong Ha, on the coastal strip along the eastern flank of the DMZ.

Nine thousand U.S. troops are acting as a blocking force on the western side of the DMZ, backing up the South Vietnamese push across the border in Laos.

Miss Atkins whispered staring ahead wide-eyed as if reliving the night of horror.

She told of a car trip into the hills, with Mrs. Kasabian at the wheel, then a climb over a fence into the rambling Tate estate. In the driveway, she said, Watson spotted a car coming and shot the driver, Stephen Parent, 18, who had been visiting the caretaker.

At the height of the frenzy later inside the house, she related, "Tex said 'turn out the lights,' and I turned out the lights . . . The people were crying and one said, 'Please don't hurt me.'"

Suddenly, one victim, Wojieiech Frykowski, who had been tied up got loose she said, and began fighting with her. "He kept pulling at my hair and I was fighting like I was fighting for my life . . . I kept swinging my knife, and my knife kept going into something."

Miss Atkins said she later picked up a towel and walked over to Miss Tate's bloody body. "I looked at her stomach and then I touched her stomach with the towel and I walked to the door and I wrote 'pig' on the door," she said.

On the second night, she said, Mrs. Kasabian directed the group on a trip to the LaBianca home.

Miss Atkins said she did not enter the house, but left in the car after dropping off Watson, Patricia Krenwinkel and Leslie Van Houten, the other two later convicted. She said she, Mrs. Kasabian and another clan member, Steve Grogan, then went walking on the beach.

Miss Atkins said she was in love with Manson from the day she met him in a San Francisco hippie commune. She said she killed Hinman because he threatened Manson with a gun. Hinman, she said, had refused to give Manson money and his car.

She sobbed, "I had no choice. He was going to hurt Charlie. He was going to hurt my love. I had to protect it . . .

"I don't know what I did, all I know is the next thing I knew I had a knife in Gary and he was yelling . . . I think I picked up the gun and hit him on the top of the head."

It all disturbed her she said, because "I'm not used to violence at all."

said it," Rogers told newsmen.

"Our policy contemplates a withdrawal of all our forces from South Vietnam," Rogers said.

Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho, authors of congressional bans on U.S. ground-combat troops in Laos, Cambodia and Thailand, proposed that Congress and President Nixon join in a declaration for total withdrawal to ease mistrust over administration policies.

Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Church said Rogers became vague when pressed on whether the United States places troop withdrawals ahead of maintaining the South Vietnamese government.

"The answer always is that he thinks we can have both," Church said.

Although Javits and Church supported the McGovern-Hatfield amendment a year ago, both indicated reservations this time. "There aren't the votes in Congress to legislate a (termination) date," Church said.

The switch in goals from specific limits on U.S. operations in Indochina to a broader statement of purpose coincided with the generally muted reaction to the Laotian operation.

Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, senior Republican on Foreign Relations who had been critical of the blackout surrounding the operation's early stages, said after Rogers' appearance: "I am inclined to believe it will work."

But Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., committee chairman, said he still has "grave questions about it."

Rogers and Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, in their Capitol Hill appearances Tuesday, emphasized Nixon administration optimism the operations in Laos and Cambodia will assure U.S. troop withdrawals will continue after the May 1 target of 284,000 is reached.

Laird, who made separate appearances before the Senate and House Armed Services committees, said the U.S.-backed attacks are running on schedule and will enable the administration to meet or beat the plan to withdraw 50,000 more American troops by May 1.

"The fact is," Rogers told reporters "we will have Americans by and large out of combat roles by the middle of this year." He declined to give an exact date. Of the 284,000 troops due to remain in Vietnam after May 1, about 45,000 are combat personnel.

Esperanto History Told To Kiwanians

Twenty-five members of Circleville Kiwanis Club braved Monday's snowfall to attend one of the few evening meetings held in the city.

Guest speaker at the weekly meeting was Lewis E. Cook Jr. who spoke on the "History of Esperanto," a language first originated in 1850.

It was founded as "a matter of necessity," according to Cook. The people of Poland, where Esperanto was founded, spoke so many different languages that one languages was formed so that all people could communicate.

The first speech in Esperanto was given in 1905.

The object of Esperanto, Cook stated, was so that a secondary language might be established for all people of the world allowing for better communications for all countries. "At the present time," he said, "no language holds over 10 per cent of the speaking people of the world. English and Chinese, the two main languages, only hold six per cent each of the speaking people."

During the meeting, Joe Bell, chairman of Kiwanis membership and development committee, presented a two-year perfect attendance pin to Bill Fisher.

Kiwanian Al Trax requested all Kiwanians support the YMCA Membership Drive by purchasing a Y membership for either themselves, their family or for some needy child.

blor to a little-known fault that rates as a pipsqueak. It is the Soledad Canyon fault in the rugged San Gabriel Mountains. A scientist who visited the scene found signs of vertical slippage —one side of the earth fracture higher than the other—but said he could easily step across the crack in the earth.

Seismologists at the California Institute of Technology assigned the quake a magnitude of 6.6 on the Richter scale, which rate major ones at 7 or more. This made it comparable to the 1933 shock in nearby Long Beach that killed 115 persons and caused $40 million damage.

Experts emphasized that this was not the long-predicted "great" earthquake of magnitude 8 or more expected some day when the fabled San Andreas fault cuts loose.

This giant crack in the earth's crust runs from the Gulf of California into the sea north of San Francisco and was responsible for the devastating 1906 temblor in the Bay area.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew headed here for consultations today after President Nixon proclaimed California a disaster area, eligible for help from a dozen federal agencies.

Reagan, after issuing a similar disaster proclamation, flew from Sacramento and made a helicopter tour of worst-hit areas. He saw rescuers pull a victim from hospital ruins.

The deaths and greatest damage were concentrated at the west end of the San Fernando Valley, Los Angeles' "bedroom" community and home to 1.3 million.

It is a 320-square-mile oval west of downtown Los Angeles, with the Santa Monica Mountains on the south and the San Gabriels soaring a mile high on the north. It is paved with housing tracts and dotted with shopping centers.

Almost as hard hit were two foothill agricultural communities in the process of becoming suburbia, Newhall and Saugus, with an area population of 70,000. They too are but 10 miles from the epicenter and virtually every building in their downtown districts reported some damage.

The area of greatest tragedy was the Veterans Administration facility in the hamlet of Sylmar. Two buildings, part of a much larger complex built in 1926, collapsed.

Some 100 patients in five wards for treatment of heart and respiratory ailments, along with attendants, were inside when the roofs fell almost to ground level.

Officials a few years ago had ruled the hospital so sturdy it was renovated rather than replaced.

Hundreds of firemen and rescue workers, backed up by doctors from other hospitals, assembled at the scene. A temporary morgue was set up on a lawn.

"We still have live people in there," a spokesman said Tuesday night. "Rescue workers hear voices. Nobody's been able to get into the basement."

Old men among the 1,250 patients at the facility sat in wheelchairs on the beautifully landscaped grounds, watching helicopters fly out injured, as squirrels frisked in trees in the sunshine.

Just a mile away, at the new $23-million Olive View County Hospital, three died and the structure was pronounced practically a total loss. Lower levels of the six-story complex crumbled, tilting or wrenching upper levels. The victims were two patients and an employe.

Two men were killed when a freeway overpass collapsed at Sylmar and another died in a bridge collapse at Newhall. In downtown Los Angeles a transient was killed when the wall of a skid row mission toppled.

Reagan at one point urged evacuation of 250,000 persons near Van Norman Lakes after the dam cracked and began leaking, but only 80,000 were actually ordered out.

Van Norman Lakes, twin reservoirs, contain water piped south from the High Sierras and when full hold 6.7 billion gallons. Both lakes were being drained into river beds and officials said safe levels should be achieved by tonight.

Aftershocks, some of magnitude 5 or more, continued by the hundreds and were expected to last for months.

The first massive shake lasted nearly a minute and caused widespread alarm among Los Angeles County's nearly 7 million residents. Windows shattered by the tens of thousands. Chimneys toppled. Roads buckled or cracked. Dishes and books fell and furniture flipflopped.

Despite noticeable swaying of tall downtown buildings a survey showed they came through well, although some had window breakage. Engineers called this a tribute to modern "earthquake-proof" design. Since a 13-story height limit was removed in the 1950s, buildings have soared 40 stories or more.

The damage to homes and apartments was not immediately calculable, but officials said thousands suffered varying degrees of loss.

Insurance sources said little of the damage was likely to be covered.

Earthquake insurance is available on a special risk basis, but it is so expensive few buy it. Most policies have a 5 per cent deductible provision. Thus on coverage of a $30,000 home the first $1,500 of damage would be excluded.

Conventional homeowner policies exclude all quake damage.

Utilities quickly restored telephone, electricity, gas and water service to all but a few areas where it was knocked out. Residents of some parts of the valley were advised to boil their water if it appeared discolored.

The streets of Los Angeles, the nation's third largest city, seemed remarkably normal after the shock. The great majority of buildings were unscathed, and downtown workers stepped nimbly around glass and rubble on sidewalks.

There was high business absenteeism as many employes stayed home to pick up what fell, replace windows and assess other damage.

Minidisaster areas were liquor stores, where countless bottles fell from shelves and smashed, grocery stores where millions of items tumbled from shelves and libraries, where thousands of volume cascaded onto floors. The central library offered free parking to anyone who'd help clean up.

NFO Claims 'Hog-Lift' Operation Is Success

Don Conrad, president of Pickaway County National Farmers Organization, said, "The NFO hog "lift" and other activities of the NFO collective bargaining program raised the price of hogs three to four dollars per hundredweight when we had a lot more hogs this year than last year and proved that united farmer action is effective."

The NFO hog lift refers to moving hogs some distance, shifting them out of the ordinary market channels.

For example 60,000 hogs were moved out of the state of Iowa to California during a one week period in an effort to make local buyers bid more for hogs to supply local demands.

The same idea was carried out in Pickaway County with hogs being shipped into Pennsylvania and New York.

The NFO started preparations for its hog "lift" at its December convention in Louisville, Kentucky, then followed with a convoy of trucks in Washington, D. C., which showed farmers receiving 15 cents per pound for hogs while the consumer was still paying about the same price for pork as when farmers were receiving 25 to 28 cents per pound for hogs.

The build-up for the NFO hog "lift" started the first part of January and then the big push of the hog "lift" started Jan. 25 and was officially suspended at 8 p.m. Feb. 2. The price of hogs in most markets went up every day the big push was on.

The NFO county president said, "This was our greatest market action victory. It proved that farmers moving their production in massive volumes into new marketing patterns could dramatically raise prices in spite of heavy supplies and when no one expected the prices to go up. According to USDA figures 1,612,000 more hogs were slaughtered in January 1971 over January 1970. This was a tremendous increase of 27 per cent. We have proven our point and now it's up to farmers to unite their strength through the NFO so more gains can be made.

"The NFO suspended the hog "lift" so we can turn the three to four dollar price rise of hogs into organizational strength. Farmers have seen what can be done. Our ability to get fair production in massive volumes and proportion of farmers who join us and participate in our collective bargaining program. We must have the largest possible participation and we are going to take time out temporarily to enroll new members and increase our ability to show what united farmer action can attain."

Pickaway County NFO will be holding informational meetings for non-members to explain how the NFO now has the scope, experience and structure to raise farm prices. All non-members will be invited to attend.

Four Area Boys Ordered To OYC

During recent Juvenile Court sessions, four Circleville youths were ordered to the Ohio Youth Commission as permanent wards.

One 17-year-old was sent away for school truancy and being incorrigible. Earlier he had pleaded guilty and underwent psychiatric examination. He had a previous record and was on probation in the court.

Two boys, 16 and 17, were before Judge Guy Cline on theft charges — of an auto and a gun. The younger was charged by city police with taking a gun from a Columbus man and selling it to a local man for $6. The older boy, who has quite an extensive record with the court, was found guilty of taking a car owned by James Grant and driving to Pittsburgh, Pa., using Grant's credit cards to purchase food, clothing and lodging. Previously on parole from the OYC for two other incidents of auto theft, the youth was returned there.

On probation for school truancy, a 15-year-old Circleville Junior High youngster was sent to the Youth Commission for excessive absence from classes. A second youth was placed on probation for 3 years and placed in detention for one weekend on a similar charge, his first offense.

A Laurelville boy found guilty of breaking and entering the Kerr Sinclair Station in Laurelville, was sentenced to the Ohio Youth Commission His sentence was suspended three months for a case review.

A Route 2, Circleville boy, 17, was found guilty of consuming alcoholic beverages at a downtown pizza parlor and placed on probation for three years. A 16-year-old with him was apprehended by liquor control agents for purchasing beer and received a similar probation. Both boys are to complete 50 hours of community work.

Charles J. Clark Jr., Groveport, received a suspended $20 fine and 30 day loss of driving privileges for speeding 90 in a 60 mile zone.

Two Circleville boys, both 17, had $10 fines suspended and lost their drivers licenses for 30 days for driving 45 in a 35 mile area.

ported two fights today across the border along Route 9. A spokesman said 33 North Vietnamese and six South Vietnamese were killed and 17 South Vietnamese were wounded.

The spokesman said the fighting occurred inside Laos southwest and west of Lang Vei but gave no distances.

Vietnamese casualties since the operation began Monday now total 55 North Vietnamese and 18 Saigon troops killed and 56 South Vietnamese wounded, headquarters said.

The U.S. Command made a belated announcement that a second UH1 helicopter was shot down Monday in southern Laos while supporting the initial drive across the border. A spokesman said two wounded American crewmen were rescued and two are missing.

Four Americans were killed in the crash announced earlier.

Meanwhile, the South Vietnamese command shifted forces to the northeast corner of South Vietnam to guard against any enemy push across that part of the demilitarized zone in retaliation for the South Vietnamese drive into Laos.

The Saigon government said 3,000 to 5,000 of its troops had been moved into the region around Dong Ha, on the coastal strip along the eastern flank of the DMZ.

Nine thousand U.S. troops are acting as a blocking force on the western side of the DMZ, backing up the South Vietnamese push across the border in Laos.

Miss Atkins whispered staring ahead wide-eyed as if reliving the night of horror.

She told of a car trip into the hills, with Mrs. Kasabian at the wheel, then a climb over a fence into the rambling Tate estate. In the driveway, she said, Watson spotted a car coming and shot the driver, Stephen Parent, 18, who had been visiting the caretaker.

At the height of the frenzy later inside the house, she related, "Tex said 'turn out the lights,' and I turned out the lights . . . The people were crying and one said, 'Please don't hurt me.'"

Suddenly, one victim, Wojieiech Frykowski, who had been tied up got loose she said, and began fighting with her. "He kept pulling at my hair and I was fighting like I was fighting for my life . . . I kept swinging my knife, and my knife kept going into something."

Miss Atkins said she later picked up a towel and walked over to Miss Tate's bloody body. "I looked at her stomach and then I touched her stomach with the towel and I walked to the door and I wrote 'pig' on the door," she said.

On the second night, she said, Mrs. Kasabian directed the group on a trip to the LaBianca home.

Miss Atkins said she did not enter the house, but left in the car after dropping off Watson, Patricia Krenwinkel and Leslie Van Houten, the other two later convicted. She said she, Mrs. Kasabian and another clan member, Steve Grogan, then went walking on the beach.

Miss Atkins said she was in love with Manson from the day she met him in a San Francisco hippie commune. She said she killed Hinman because he threatened Manson with a gun. Hinman, she said, had refused to give Manson money and his car.

She sobbed, "I had no choice. He was going to hurt Charlie. He was going to hurt my love. I had to protect it . . .

"I don't know what I did, all I know is the next thing I knew I had a knife in Gary and he was yelling . . . I think I picked up the gun and hit him on the top of the head."

It all disturbed her she said, because "I'm not used to violence at all."

8 Local Men Receive Discharge

Eight local area men have recently been discharged from the armed forces upon completion of tours of duty.

In December, James E. Estep of Route 2, Orient, was discharged from service with the U.S. Army.

Marine veterans are Gary L. Richardson, Mt. Sterling; and Walter E. Smyers, Route 1, Kingston.

Saxour, Osburn Appear In Court

A Circleville area man, William Saxour, was sentenced to the Ohio Penitentiary Tuesday afternoon for failure to support his minor children.

Saxour was ordered to the state penal institution by Judge William Ammer for violating a previous probation for non-support set in September, 1968. His sentence was for 1-3 years.

John Edward Osburn, recently returned from Arizona by sheriff deputies, entered a guilty plea to auto theft and was sentenced to Mansfield Reformatory for 1-20 years.

said it," Rogers told newsmen.

"Our policy contemplates a withdrawal of all our forces from South Vietnam," Rogers said.

Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho, authors of congressional bans on U.S. ground-combat troops in Laos, Cambodia and Thailand, proposed that Congress and President Nixon join in a declaration for total withdrawal to ease mistrust over administration policies.

Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Church said Rogers became vague when pressed on whether the United States places troop withdrawals ahead of maintaining the South Vietnamese government.

"The answer always is that he thinks we can have both," Church said.

Although Javits and Church supported the McGovern-Hatfield amendment a year ago, both indicated reservations this time. "There aren't the votes in Congress to legislate a (termination) date," Church said.

The switch in goals from specific limits on U.S. operations in Indochina to a broader statement of purpose coincided with the generally muted reaction to the Laotian operation.

Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, senior Republican on Foreign Relations who had been critical of the blackout surrounding the operation's early stages, said after Rogers' appearance: "I am inclined to believe it will work."

But Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., committee chairman, said he still has "grave questions about it."

Rogers and Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, in their Capitol Hill appearances Tuesday, emphasized Nixon administration optimism the operations in Laos and Cambodia will assure U.S. troop withdrawals will continue after the May 1 target of 284,000 is reached.

Laird, who made separate appearances before the Senate and House Armed Services committees, said the U.S.-backed attacks are running on schedule and will enable the administration to meet or beat the plan to withdraw 50,000 more American troops by May 1.

blor to a little-known fault that rates as a pipsqueak. It is the Soledad Canyon fault in the rugged San Gabriel Mountains. A scientist who visited the scene found signs of vertical slippage —one side of the earth fracture higher than the other—but said he could easily step across the crack in the earth.

Seismologists at the California Institute of Technology assigned the quake a magnitude of 6.6 on the Richter scale, which rate major ones at 7 or more. This made it comparable to the 1933 shock in nearby Long Beach that killed 115 persons and caused $40 million damage.

Experts emphasized that this was not the long-predicted "great" earthquake of magnitude 8 or more expected some day when the fabled San Andreas fault cuts loose.

This giant crack in the earth's crust runs from the Gulf of California into the sea north of San Francisco and was responsible for the devastating 1906 temblor in the Bay area.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew headed here for consultations today after President Nixon proclaimed California a disaster area, eligible for help from a dozen federal agencies.

Reagan, after issuing a similar disaster proclamation, flew from Sacramento and made a helicopter tour of worst-hit areas. He saw rescuers pull a victim from hospital ruins.

The deaths and greatest damage were concentrated at the west end of the San Fernando Valley, Los Angeles' "bedroom" community and home to 1.3 million.

It is a 320-square-mile oval west of downtown Los Angeles, with the Santa Monica Mountains on the south and the San Gabriels soaring a mile high on the north. It is paved with housing tracts and dotted with shopping centers.

Almost as hard hit were two foothill agricultural communities in the process of becoming suburbia, Newhall and Saugus, with an area population of 70,000. They too are but 10 miles from the epicenter and virtually every building in their downtown districts reported some damage.

The area of greatest tragedy was the Veterans Administration facility in the hamlet of Sylmar. Two buildings, part of a much larger complex built in 1926, collapsed.

Some 100 patients in five wards for treatment of heart and respiratory ailments, along with attendants, were inside when the roofs fell almost to ground level.

Officials a few years ago had ruled the hospital so sturdy it was renovated rather than replaced.

Hundreds of firemen and rescue workers, backed up by doctors from other hospitals, assembled at the scene. A temporary morgue was set up on a lawn.

"We still have live people in there," a spokesman said Tuesday night. "Rescue workers hear voices. Nobody's been able to get into the basement."

Old men among the 1,250 patients at the facility sat in wheelchairs on the beautifully landscaped grounds, watching helicopters fly out injured, as squirrels frisked in trees in the sunshine.

Just a mile away, at the new $23-million Olive View County Hospital, three died and the structure was pronounced practically a total loss. Lower levels of the six-story complex crumbled, tilting or wrenching upper levels. The victims were two patients and an employe.

Two men were killed when a freeway overpass collapsed at Sylmar and another died in a bridge collapse at Newhall. In downtown Los Angeles a transient was killed when the wall of a skid row mission toppled.

Reagan at one point urged evacuation of 250,000 persons near Van Norman Lakes after the dam cracked and began leaking, but only 80,000 were actually ordered out.

Van Norman Lakes, twin reservoirs, contain water piped south from the High Sierras and when full hold 6.7 billion gallons. Both lakes were being drained into river beds and officials said safe levels should be achieved by tonight.

Aftershocks, some of magnitude 5 or more, continued by the hundreds and were expected to last for months.

The first massive shake lasted nearly a minute and caused widespread alarm among Los Angeles County's nearly 7 million residents. Windows shattered by the tens of thousands. Chimneys toppled. Roads buckled or cracked. Dishes and books fell and furniture flip-flopped.

Despite noticeable swaying of tall downtown buildings a survey showed they came through well, although some had window breakage. Engineers called this a tribute to modern "earthquake-proof" design. Since a 13-story height limit was removed in the 1950s, buildings have soared 40 stories or more.

The damage to homes and apartments was not immediately calculable, but officials said thousands suffered varying degrees of loss.

Insurance sources said little of the damage was likely to be covered.

Earthquake insurance is available on a special risk basis, but it is so expensive few buy it. Most policies have a 5 per cent deductible provision. Thus on coverage of a $30,000 home the first $1,500 of damage would be excluded.

Conventional homeowner policies exclude all quake damage.

Utilities quickly restored telephone, electricity, gas and water service to all but a few areas where it was knocked out. Residents of some parts of the valley were advised to boil their water if it appeared discolored.

The streets of Los Angeles, the nation's third largest city, seemed remarkably normal after the shock. The great majority of buildings were unscathed, and downtown workers stepped nimbly around glass and rubble on sidewalks.

There was high business absenteeism as many employes stayed home to pick up what fell, replace windows and assess other damage.

Minidisaster areas were liquor stores, where countless bottles fell from shelves and smashed, grocery stores where millions of items tumbled from shelves and libraries, where thousands of volume cascaded onto floors. The central library offered free parking to anyone who'd help clean up.

Editorially Speaking . . .

Major School Decision

Wisconsin's supreme court, by a vote of 6-1, has given the Amish one of their first victories and certainly the most far-reaching one in their long fight against compulsory public education.

Ramifications of the Wisconsin decision, if not overturned by federal courts, could go far in limiting the right of the state to decide how and for how long children must be schooled.

There was no equivocation in the court's decision. It said there is no compelling necessity for Amish children to attend high school, and that the First Amendment to the Constitution protects the Amish against having their children schooled in a manner contrary to their religious beliefs.

Perhaps the issue goes beyond the constitutional question. One of those who testified for the Amish was Dr. Donald Erickson, professor of education at the University of Chicago, who said:

"The Amish people's approach to education is one of the most effective yet devised, with little unemployment, crime and juvenile delinquency . . .

"The public school approach has worked well for many but it has been an obvious failure outside the cultural main."

Those are words with a ring of truth to them. If enough people pay attention, the Wisconsin case could be the beginning of a broad review of education, its requirements and its responsibilities.

Poor Alternative

That there are inequities in sentences handed down for similar offenses is recognized by legal authorities. Periodically, there are moves to achieve some standardization in sentencing procedures — with limited results.

One of the current movements, which has grown spontaneously from coast to coast, involves the defendant who is sentenced to a minor fine, and then placed in jail to work it off when he cannot raise the money.

Such either-or sentences have little purpose. Usually they worsen the defendant's financial situation, sometimes costing him his job in the process. They also usually cost the state more than the amount of the fine. Installment payment of the fine would seem to be a better alternative.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — With interest charges expected to fall even lower during the next few weeks, consumers soon will be learning the other side of the current easy money policy: The interest they earn also may decline.

The purpose and net effect is to make borrowing more attractive and saving less rewarding than during the past year when millions of Americans showed they hadn't forgotten the wisdom of old fashioned thrift.

Now that money is in more plentiful supply, relative to the lowered demand, institutions will be seeking to put their money to work and a bit less interested in obtaining more funds. Passbook interest, therefore, is likely to decline.

First Pennsylvania Bank & Trust, a large Philadelphia-based bank, already has announced that interest paid on regular savings will fall to 4 per cent from 4.5 per cent beginning next Monday.

Recognizing the tendency, some wise savers are putting their money into bank certificates that guarantee a relatively high rate of return for months and years ahead. In order to earn this interest, however, savers must be willing to commit their funds for a period of time.

Likely to benefit from any reduction in interest paid is the U.S. Savings Bond program, which guarantees interest of 5.5 per cent if held to maturity in 5 years, 10 months, and which offers a minimum of 4 per cent fol redemption prior to maturity.

Evidence of the complete change that has taken place in the borrowing-lending market is provided by figures from 4,379 federally insured savings and loan associations, which provide most of the mortgage money.

In December 1969 they reported that withdrawals exceeded deposits by $387 million. One year later they showed a net inflow of $1.15 billion. In just one year they increased their assets nearly $14 billion to $170.6 billion.

The improved condition of the S&Ls is reflected, understandably, in higher mortgage commitments, with a record total of $2.38 billion loaned out in December alone.

Such loans, incidentally, remain among the safest made by any institution.

Despite last year's recession and rising unemployment, mortgage deliquences rose hardly at all.

After polling more than 900 members, the U.S. Savings and Loan League reported a delinquency ration of only .79 per cent —well under one per cent, that is, compared with .73 in December 1969 and .74 in December 1968.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One should not live in the past, we are told.

But is there a better place in the world to go for a nicer restful trip away from the perils of today? Trying to project one's self into the futre is no boon, because we have no guide ropes there and anyway the future looms up as perplexing and ominous as the present.

No, only in the past is there safety. It had its perils, too, of course, but we conquered them, or at least survived them. And what we treasure in memory of all our yesterdays are those moments which in revery now still make us smile or inspire a tear no longer bitter.

Your own armory of memories is well-stock if you can look back and remember when—

Middle-aged people kept in touch with each other with penny post cards, but it cost young lovers two cents to mail their letters first class and keep their secrets from the common eye.

During the depression an apple a day did more than just keep the doctor away. It kept many a man from starving.

The only legal beverage with a mite of alcohol in it that was generally available to topers was "near beer," and the stock jest was: "Whoever called it that sure was a poor judge of distance."

It was the test of a gentleman to wear itchy longjohn underwear in winter without scratching in public.

A member of the elite felt culturally deprived if any year went by in which he didn't see a vaudeville performer imitate bird calls by whistling through cupped hands.

A man who wore a necktie more than two inches wide was out of style.

You were accepted in a small town as an expert on the theater if you had seen "Uncle Tom's Cabin" three times or once saw James O'Neill play his famous title role in "The Count of Monte Cristo."

When the local doctor began charging $3 for a house call, people started complaining that only the rich could afford to get sick anymore.

Teen-agers were usually better-dressed than their parents—and never never, thought of using in conversation the words they sometimes scrawled on fences at night.

In a fight it was thought unfair to kick anybody while he was down.

Most Americans felt it was family disgrace if their father or mother died in an old folks' home.

Those were the days—remember?

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A CUB reporter once asked Gene Fowler, in the days the latter was editing a New York newspaper, "Mr. F., do you spell 'graphic' with one F or two?" "Son," advised Fowler, "if you're going to use any at all, I guess you might as well go all the way."

H. Allen Smith tells about a reporter on the rewrite desk who heard of an apartment-house fire and tried by phone to get somebody nearby to supply the details. By mischance, he was connected with a gent in the very apartment where the fire had started. Enchanted by finding himself an authority all of a sudden, the gent talked on and on, describing the progress of the flames, and the frantic but unavailing efforts of the firemen to extinguish them. Finally, however, he said, "I guess I better hang up. I seem to be on fire myself!"

A city vagrant wandered all the way up to the Berkshire foothills, where he begged a farmer's wife for a bit of food. "I'll give you a full dinner," she proposed, "if you'll go out to the barn and milk my cow." Game to the core, the vagrant took the stool and pail handed to him and inquired where the barn door was located. Forty minutes later he staggered back, bruised and battered, but with nary a drop of milk. "I did my darndest, ma'am," he told the farmer's wife sadly, "but I just couldn't persuade that cow of yours to sit on the stool."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I pace the floor for hours before I fall asleep and then wake up totally exhausted.

The tranquilizers and the sleeping pills leave me confused and fagitued. How can I break the insomnia habit?

Mrs. E.F., Conn.

Dear Mrs. F.: Insomnia is not a habit. It is a chronic complaint with endless variations.

Insomnia seems to be a product of our modern civilization's stress and anxiety. In this whirlwind life of high pressure, insomnia reduces the capacity to function.

Doctors are bombarded by patients begging for any new drug that can aid "restful sleep," and give them more energy.

Drugs, however, are not the answer. Far too many people have traded their more easily controlled insomnia for addiction and dependence on drugs. This is an easy trap to fall into.

There are no easy answers for insomnia, because there are too many causes. And unless a particular cause is found and removed, a cycle is set up, one that is difficult to break.

Heavy meals, overfatigue, poor temperature regulation in the home, with inadequate ventilation, can interfere with sleep. Stimulating drugs, even ordinary nose drops, diet pills and thyroid tablets can disturb your sleep.

The very first thing you must do is to try to break your dependence on sleep-inducing drugs. Relying on drugs to induce sleep just compounds the difficulty.

It is admittedly difficult to acquire the art of breaking patterns that have been going on for many years.

To learn the art of leisure and relaxation, you must learn how to divorce yourself from the problems of the day.

Frequently, it is necessary to have some psychological guidance in order to gain a better insight into the reasons for persistent tension and the turbulence that interferes with a good night's sleep.

Smoke is as deadly a killer as fire. Smoke detectors are available for use in your home.

Conservative Reforms

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Anticipating trouble with the conservatives over President Nixon's plunge into unmitigated Keynesianism, one White House adviser asked a canny member of a prominent conservative organization to come up with "positive proposals" that would help solve our troubles without throwing the ideological game to Sen. Muskie or Sen. Humphrey for 1972.

Quick like a fox, the White House adviser was given pertinent suggestions. One was for a federally financed voucher system for education. Another was for a simplification of the federal income tax structure. A third was for mandatory minimum sentencing for serious federal crimes. Four was for limiting assistance to the poor to grants in kind, such as housing stamps, clothing stamps, transportation stamps and medical stamps, just to make sure that welfare funds don't go for marijuana, booze and better TV sets. Five was for a "reprivatization" of government insurance policies, including social security. Six was for giving U.S. support to a European Defense Community armed with an independent nuclear deterrent. And seven was for appointing an Italian American jurist to the Supreme Court.

The White House adviser, who is more sympathetic than some of his brethren to conservative philosophy, thinks that all seven of the proposals are worth talking about. The voucher idea for financing education, for example, would enable parents to spend their individual share of aid-to-education money on schools of their own choice. They could be public schools, parochial schools, private schools or experimental schools. By giving the grants directly to parents, the constitutionally troublesome church - state issue would be by - passed. As the conservatives rather wickedly point out, a Nixon-backed voucher system might revive the parochial schools to the point where Nixon would carry the Catholic vote even against a Catholic Democrat. The opposition would come from liberals, including the teachers' unions, which are mosty Democratic anyway.

The only drawback, as the White House adviser saw it, was in the matter of "costing the voucher system out." If voucher-financed education were to involve centralized assumption of all school finance, the cost to the federal government would be staggering. if, on the other hand, the states and the local school communities in city and suburb were to assume the fiscal responsibility for providing the voucher money, it might take from now to doomsday to get the system going.

A "massive simplification" of the federal tax structure might be devised to do away with the complex tissue of exemptions save for people in the lowest brackets. This could be combined with giving everybody a fairer shake by decreeing that nobody's tax rate on taxable income would be more than twice as high as anybody else's. Under a simplified system, tax lawyers would have to turn to more productive work and the snooping aspects of the IRS would disappear as if by magic. But, again, there might be the "costing out" drawback: would a simplified system provide the huge tax-take necessary to run a welfare state?

As the White House adviser sees it, there are drawbacks to other items in the conservative list of reforms. A mandatory minimum sentence for serious federal crimes wouldn't cover murders, rapes and armed robberies unless they involved plots that crossed state lines. True enough, the federal government could provide for uniform minimum sentences in the District of Columbia, which is under the jurisdiction of Congress. But how long would it take for the states to follow suit?

As for paying out relief money in stamps, good only for specific items, this would extend the concept of "governess government" which the Nixon Administration is trying desperately to get away from. Some of the older conservatives would not object to forcing people to accept the ignominy being denied free choice when it comes to spending relief money. Yet if a means test is objectionable, a "stamp stigma" would be even more so.

It remains to be seen whether the conservatives can really get the White House to act on their proposals for bringing voluntarism into reforms. Professor Milton Friedman has championed such things as the school voucher system for years. The White House listens to him, but that is as far as it goes.

Editorially Speaking . . .

Major School Decision

Wisconsin's supreme court, by a vote of 6-1, has given the Amish one of their first victories and certainly the most far-reaching one in their long fight against compulsory public education.

Ramifications of the Wisconsin decision, if not overturned by federal courts, could go far in limiting the right of the state to decide how and for how long children must be schooled.

There was no equivocation in the court's decision. It said there is no compelling necessity for Amish children to attend high school, and that the First Amendment to the Constitution protects the Amish against having their children schooled in a manner contrary to their religious beliefs.

Perhaps the issue goes beyond the constitutional question. One of those who testified for the Amish was Dr. Donald Erickson, professor of education at the University of Chicago, who said:

"The Amish people's approach to education is one of the most effective yet devised, with little unemployment, crime and juvenile delinquency . . .

"The public school approach has worked well for many but it has been an obvious failure outside the cultural main."

Those are words with a ring of truth to them. If enough people pay attention, the Wisconsin case could be the beginning of a broad review of education, its requirements and its responsibilities.

Poor Alternative

That there are inequities in sentences handed down for similar offenses is recognized by legal authorities. Periodically, there are moves to achieve some standardization in sentencing procedures — with limited results.

One of the current movements, which has grown spontaneously from coast to coast, involves the defendant who is sentenced to a minor fine, and then placed in jail to work it off when he cannot raise the money.

Such either-or sentences have little purpose. Usually they worsen the defendant's financial situation, sometimes costing him his job in the process. They also usually cost the state more than the amount of the fine. Installment payment of the fine would seem to be a better alternative.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — With interest charges expected to fall even lower during the next few weeks, consumers soon will be learning the other side of the current easy money policy: The interest they earn also may decline.

The purpose and net effect is to make borrowing more attractive and saving less rewarding than during the past year when millions of Americans showed they hadn't forgotten the wisdom of old fashioned thrift.

Now that money is in more plentiful supply, relative to the lowered demand, institutions will be seeking to put their money to work and a bit less interested in obtaining more funds. Passbook interest, therefore, is likely to decline.

First Pennsylvania Bank & Trust, a large Philadelphia-based bank, already has announced that interest paid on regular savings will fall to 4 per cent from 4.5 per cent beginning next Monday.

Recognizing the tendency, some wise savers are putting their money into bank certificates that guarantee a relatively high rate of return for months and years ahead. In order to earn this interest, however, savers must be willing to commit their funds for a period of time.

Likely to benefit from any reduction in interest paid is the U.S. Savings Bond program, which guarantees interest of 5.5 per cent if held to maturity in 5 years, 10 months, and which offers a minimum of 4 per cent fol redemption prior to maturity.

Evidence of the complete change that has taken place in the borrowing-lending market is provided by figures from 4,379 federally insured savings and loan associations, which provide most of the mortgage money.

In December 1969 they reported that withdrawals exceeded deposits by $387 million. One year later they showed a net inflow of $1.15 billion. In just one year they increased their assets nearly $14 billion to $170.6 billion.

The improved condition of the S&Ls is reflected, understandably, in higher mortgage commitments, with a record total of $2.38 billion loaned out in December alone.

Such loans, incidentally, remain among the safest made by any institution.

Despite last year's recession and rising unemployment, mortgage deliquences rose hardly at all.

After polling more than 900 members, the U.S. Savings and Loan League reported a delinquency ration of only .79 per cent —well under one per cent, that is, compared with .73 in December 1969 and .74 in December 1968.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One should not live in the past, we are told.

But is there a better place in the world to go for a nicer restful trip away from the perils of today? Trying to project one's self into the futre is no boon, because we have no guide ropes there and anyway the future looms up as perplexing and ominous as the present.

No, only in the past is there safety. It had its perils, too, of course, but we conquered them, or at least survived them. And what we treasure in memory of all our yesterdays are those moments which in revery now still make us smile or inspire a tear no longer bitter.

Your own armory of memories is well-stock if you can look back and remember when—

Middle-aged people kept in touch with each other with penny post cards, but it cost young lovers two cents to mail their letters first class and keep their secrets from the common eye.

During the depression an apple a day did more than just keep the doctor away. It kept many a man from starving.

The only legal beverage with a mite of alcohol in it that was generally available to topers was "near beer," and the stock jest was: "Whoever called it that sure was a poor judge of distance."

It was the test of a gentleman to wear itchy longjohn underwear in winter without scratching in public.

A member of the elite felt culturally deprived if any year went by in which he didn't see a vaudeville performer imitate bird calls by whistling through cupped hands.

A man who wore a necktie more than two inches wide was out of style.

You were accepted in a small town as an expert on the theater if you had seen "Uncle Tom's Cabin" three times or once saw James O'Neill play his famous title role in "The Count of Monte Cristo."

When the local doctor began charging $3 for a house call, people started complaining that only the rich could afford to get sick anymore.

Teen-agers were usually better-dressed than their parents—and never never, thought of using in conversation the words they sometimes scrawled on fences at night.

In a fight it was thought unfair to kick anybody while he was down.

Most Americans felt it was family disgrace if their father or mother died in an old folks' home.

Those were the days—remember?

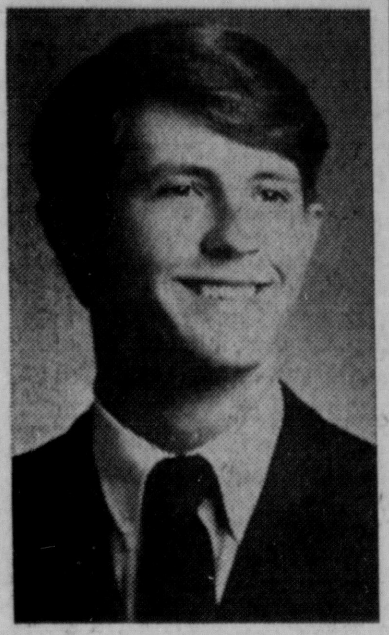
Name Senior Girl, Boy Of The Week

This week Vicki Dennis and Randy Alkire have been chosen to represent Westfall High School as the Seniors of the Week.

Randy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Alkire of Route 3, Mt. Sterling, is 17 years old and enrolled in the college preparatory course of study After graduation he plans to attend Bowling Green University.

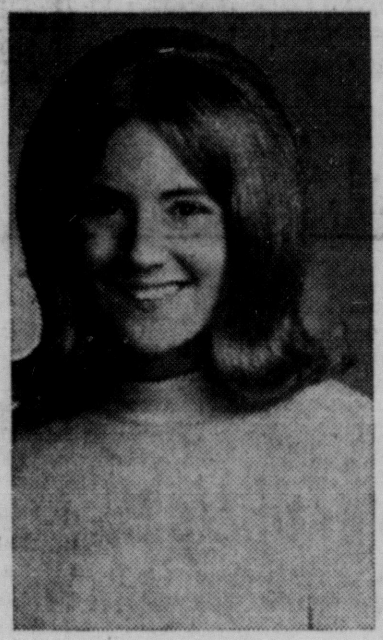


RANDY ALKIRE

His hobbies include hunting and fishing. He sincerely dislikes the long school hours.

At Westfall he is a member of the cross country team, baseball team, and basketball team. He is also president of the Varsity "W," president of his homeroom and a member of the Science Club.

Vicki is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dennis of Route 3, Mt. Sterling. She is presently enrolled in a combination of college preparatory and business courses.



VICKI DENNIS

Some of her activities include 4-H, FTA, Drama Club, annual staff, co-captain of the varsity cheerleading squad and secretary of the senior class. She is also presently the vice president of the student council and her homeroom.

Vicki lists her hobbies as talking to friends, laughing, cheerleading and Mark. She dislikes unfriendly people and people who are afraid to talk.

Vicki was the 1970 delegate to Buckeye Girls' State from Westfall and was chosen as one of the two senior girls to take the DAR Good Citizens Test. She was head of the football homecoming committee and is on the committee for caps, gowns and invitations for the class of '71.

Work and college figure in Vicki's post-graduation plans.

Adventuresome Skiiers Take To Ohio Ski Trails

HEARTY SNOW BUNNIES — A typical "before" picture illustrates the eager faces of Westfall students as they prepare to take to the slopes on one of their skiing trips. An all-day activity, the youths and their advisers return from their snowland trips exhausted, and so far, with no major injuries.

They're at it again! This time students cannot say they had no warning for 1971 is the second year for the Westfall Skiing Club.

"Dare-devil" students and teachers of the Westfall district have been taking to the snow-capped hills of northern Ohio in the search of some weekend adventure in the art of snow skiing.

The students leave home sleepy-eyed, but energetic and excited early on Saturday mornings. Words and pain describe the unconditioned beginneer skiier as the car caravan (or once in a while, a bus) returns to Westfall at night.

This year's club has about thirty members. Advisors for the club are Mrs. Ruth Wilson, Miss Cheryl Bowers, and Miss Ann Bowers.

The club has made three trips to Snow Trails of Mansfield this year, and it is the hope of most members to make another trip before the end of Ohio's skiing season. Westfall High School is the pioneer school in Pickaway County to offer a skiing club to its students, but the club has already gained a lot of community support.

Thoughts of the students range from "that will be easy to tackle" to "let's pack up and go home" at the first glance of the big hill, but it is soon found out that there are smaller hills, which the amateur skier may begin on. With the help of the advisers and the veteran skiers, the beginner soon finds himself on the intermediate slope.

The concern and need for new challenges leads the once — beginner to the advanced hills where he really learns the techniques in the art of skiing.

French Club Samples Terrace Room Cuisine

French Club recently journeyed to the Terrace Room at the Ohio Union to take part in a smorgasboard.

Members received a chance to try various French foods including chicken and roast beef cooked in wine, escalloped potatoes and many different French salads. Several members enjoyed wine parfaits for dessert.

The group was accompanied by the French Club adviser and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Baker, and Mr. and Mrs. James Kibby.

Good Citizen Named

Senior Sally Ann Minor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd E. Minor of Route 2, Circleville was presented with the Good Citizens Award by the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Sally received the highest score on a test administered Nov. 17 which covered such areas as American government, American history, and Ohio history. The award was also based on dependability, leadership, service, and patriotism.

Drama Club Selects Play

"The Waiting Room" is one of three one-act plays now in production by the Drama Club to be presented on March 5.

Heading the series is a play which opens with Mr. Arnold, portrayed by Mark Stubbs and Mrs. Baker, played by Sandy Peart, first discovering the oriental room at Clearfork, an old folks home for the blind.

Clearfork is run by an evil doctor who takes money from the blind old people to supposedly fix up these rooms. When the old people run out of money, the doctor gets rid of them and tells the other patients that the person has been cured and has left the institution.

Mr. Clak, played by Terry Rogers, enters into the picture as a rich old blind patient who has given the doctor money to fix up the room. He begins to question the intentions of the doctor, but is soon convinced by Mrs. Baker that the doctor is a good man and can be trusted.

Vera, a mute portrayed by Susie Easter, is the home nurse who helps the sick Mr. Arnold to his chair. Mrs. Eden (Debbie Thompson) comes in to find Mr. Arnold dying. Mike Puckett, the male attendent, soon enters to pronounce the old Mr. Arnold cured. The drama ends with a celebration for the cured Mr. Arnold which is at last entered by the doubting Mr. Clak.

Band Organizes For Basketball

Yes, the rumor is true ... Kibby's Raiders ride again!

But what are some of the boys in the band, along with their fearless band director, up to? They have once again taken up a sport. Only this time, instead of rolling houses, basketball is their goal.

The running Mustangs have already started planning a schedule with various teams in the Westfall area. Plans are also being made to play the Teays Valley Band team on Feb. 9.

This is the first year for the Westfall Band to have a basketball team. The team numbers around 12 and is coached by none other than that cunning Mr. James Kibby, their fearless band director. The band members combine an on the beat dribbling with an oppressing 2-1-2 defense to give them their total team power.

The team is looking for much success this year as Kibby's Raiders ride again!

Getting Away From It All

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

"Let's get away from it all" went a popular song some years back. If people are humming it again, small wonder!

Modern life is full of letdowns (the telephone that doesn't work) and breakdowns (the daily commuter train) and putdowns (the landlord who sneers when you suggest $285 seems a great deal to pay for a 1½-room apartment). Our air is polluted. Heaven knows what goes into our foods. And products designed to last a lifetime konk out and need repairs in no time at all.

No wonder there are times when we'd love to escape from it all. Meet two who have: Helen and Scott Nearing.

Over 40 years ago, the Nearings decided to turn their back on the modern world and go back to nature.

How they've succeeded is told in "Living the Good Life (How to Live Safely and Simply in a Troubled World)" published by Schocken Books, N. Y. It's quite a story, one that makes a sooty city dweller wish he were made of stronger stuff.

The Nearings way of living in Harborside, Maine, is Spartan — but it's also peaceful, joyous and productive, providing fresh air, sunshine and freedom from the tensions of urban living.

Four hours each day are spent in "bread labor" -- farming. They produce their own food and barter or sell the surplus to buy clothing, tools and the few other stores they need. When not tending garden, the pair, both vegetarians, work on their dozen compost heaps or add to the high stone and concrete wall they started building 14 years ago. It is almost finished.

A large sun-heated greenhouse and three cellars under the house for root storage provide them with fresh healthgiving food the year round.

Their diet consists of 50 per cent fruit, 35 per cent vegetables (1-3 green and leafy, 1-3 yellow, 1-3 juice), 10 per cent protein and starch (the protein in nuts, beans, olives, cereal grains and seeds) and 5 per cent fat (olive, soy, corn peanut and sunflower oils).

They supply their own winter fuel, chopping 14 cords each year from their own land to see them through cold weather. It is stacked neatly under the roof of an open shed to dry, then it's piled on a toboggan that slides down to their door for efficient delivery, as needed.

When they went back to nature 40 years ago people were startled, but currently their way of living has attracted the attention of hundreds of young couples across the country. For graduate students at the Universities of Toronto, Buffalo, Iowa and Brandeis, are writing their theses on them. Up the road a young couple, Eliot and Sue Coleman are duplicating their "good life" on 50 acres sold to them by the Nearings.

While the Nearings — Scott is 87, Sue, 66 — don't consider their life style ideal for everyone, they find it has kept them content and made them physically fit. They are already projecting a new 5-year-project — a stone house they will build themselves on a high ridge on heir land.

Put-Up Jobs Novelties To Hang On Walls

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

If all your family room needs to give it zing is a Tiffany lamp, an old-fashioned cathedral radio or a nostalgia item like a bubble gum machine, stop shopping the antique shops. Instead, head for the gift counter in a department store and pick up one or all of these items (and for a song) in a washable vinyl wallcovering form. They're the newest stick-ons and you can put 'em up or take 'em down without damage to wallpaper or paint.

Also included in this amusing line of stick-on furniture is a brass headboard, and adjustable poster frame and an authentically brilliant stained glass window.

Other novel wall decorations — teens love these — are a group of road signs — Stop, Yield, Dead End, No Parking, One Way — made of lightweight Monsanto Fome-Cor. The same material is also used for a group of hang-up kitchen bulletin boards that include four that are colorfully shaped as orange, lemon, lime or apple slices.

A pair of tongs is a must for the well appointed kitchen. Use them for: Lifting asparagus, artichokes, corn on the cob or spaghetti: turning chops, bacon or fried chicken.

Getting Away From It All

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

"Let's get away from it all" went a popular song some years back. If people are humming it again, small wonder!

Modern life is full of letdowns (the telephone that doesn't work) and breakdowns (the daily commuter train) and putdowns (the landlord who sneers when you suggest $285 seems a great deal to pay for a 1½-room apartment). Our air is polluted. Heaven knows what goes into our foods. And products designed to last a lifetime konk out and need repairs in no time at all.

No wonder there are times when we'd love to escape from it all. Meet two who have: Helen and Scott Nearing.

Over 40 years ago, the Nearings decided to turn their back on the modern world and go back to nature.

How they've succeeded is told in "Living the Good Life (How to Live Safely and Simply in a Troubled World)" published by Schocken Books, N. Y. It's quite a story, one that makes a sooty city dweller wish he were made of stronger stuff.

The Nearings way of living in Harborside, Maine, is Spartan — but it's also peaceful, joyous and productive, providing fresh air, sunshine and freedom from the tensions of urban living.

Four hours each day are spent in "bread labor" — farming. They produce their own food and barter or sell the surplus to buy clothing, tools and the few other stores they need. When not tending garden, the pair, both vegetarians, work on their dozen compost heaps or add to the high stone and concrete wall they started building 14 years ago. It is almost finished.

A large sun-heated greenhouse and three cellars under the house for root storage provide them with fresh healthgiving food the year round.

Their diet consists of 50 per cent fruit, 35 per cent vegetables (1-3 green and leafy, 1-3 yellow, 1-3 juice), 10 per cent protein and starch (the protein in nuts, beans, olives, cereal grains and seeds) and 5 per cent fat (olive, soy, corn peanut and sunflower oils).

They supply their own winter fuel, chopping 14 cords each year from their own land to see them through cold weather. It is stacked neatly under the roof of an open shed to dry, then it's piled on a toboggan that slides down to their door for efficient delivery, as needed.

When they went back to nature 40 years ago people were startled, but currently their way of living has attracted the attention of hundreds of young couples across the country. For graduate students at the Universities of Toronto, Buffalo, Iowa and Brandeis, are writing their theses on them. Up the road a young couple, Eliot and Sue Coleman are duplicating their "good life" on 50 acres sold to them by the Nearings.

While the Nearings — Scott is 87, Sue, 66 — don't consider their life style ideal for everyone, they find it has kept them content and made them physically fit. They are already projecting a new 5-year-project — a stone house they will build themselves on a high ridge on heir land.

ROLLS-ROYCE CRASHES—A chauffeur rests on the hood of his employer's Rolls-Royce and reads a London newspaper account of the famed auto manufacturer's current financial troubles. Rolls said it went broke because of skyrocketing costs in building jet plane engines for Lockheed. The government is aiming to refloat the company, possibly with American aid.

Views On TV-Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With the return of Apollo 14 to earth and the Southern California earthquake, daytime television Tuesday was filled with real drama.

The networks moved fast to handle news of the destructive quake by interrupting regular programming with brief, printed bulletins. NBC had a short summary in the early afternoon and preempted a soap opera in midafternoon for an excellent, comprehensive review which included some live pictures and showed rescue efforts in some crumbled. buildings. It followed with a 15-minute special report after its movie broadcast.

CBS presented resumes before and after its Apollo coverage.

A television report of the moon visitors' return has never been so clear and complete. Viewers could see the spaceship as it shot into view, dropping the drague chute and breaking out the three yellow-orange parachutes that carried it into the Pacific waters. A camera in a hovering helicopter made it possible to watch the entire recovery operation from a front row seat.

While the network teams were well prepared, the presence of astronauts made for some interesting commentary. Alan L. Bean on NBC, especially, added an extra dimension to the splash-down coverage by recalling his emotions and activities in the minutes before leaving the space capsule. NBC's Audience Research Department estimates that 52 million people saw all or some of the Apollo coverage during the day.

After the drama of the day, the fictional efforts spun of the Hollywood production lines seemed anticlimatic.

Even so, ABC's special, "Stand Up and Cheer" was a jolly, bouncy hour of music that came wrapped in cheerful red, white and blue.

The hour was based on a Las Vegas stage show worked up by Johnny Mann who was Joey Bishop's musical director and frequent foil.

Most of the sound and action came from the Johnny Mann Singers, an attractive group of 18 young men and women. They tackled very well everything from Gospel and "Stardust" to late Bacharach. Pearl Bailey strolled out for some spontaneous talk with a bunch of cute kids. Henry Fonda was there to do a little talking about the greatness of the nation and some of its great men.

The program, coming just before the birthdays of two celebrated Americans, struck a deliberately patriotic and nostalgic note.

The island of Java ranks as one of the world's most densely peopled lands, averaging 1,500 persons per square mile.

Gilligan Says Appalachian Program Has Aided Ohioans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan told a Congressional committee in written testimony today the Appalachian development program has been responsible for major economic improvements in 28 southern Ohio counties.

Gilligan supported the Randolph-Cooper Appalachia Bill, which would retain the present program, in testimony presented to a Senate Public Works subcommittee.

The Ohio governor said more than $250 million in federal, state and local funds have been invested in the state's Appalachia area since the program began.

The program has resulted in the construction of 19 hospitals and health centers, six vocational schools, 70 miles of development highways, numerous water and sewage facilites, land conservation and further development of the region's human resources, Gilligan said.

"These are projects which have helped to reverse the downward trend of the region's economy," the governor said. "Without Appalachian funds it is doubtful that these projects would have been undertaken."

As a result of the program, Gilligan said, 23 of Ohio's 28 Appalachian counties reduced their unemployment rates — even to below the national average — and 19 counties had growth in their effective buying income higher than the national average.

Gilligan said the impact of the program on the lives of public officials and their constituents in the area was quite apparent at a public hearing he attended in Athens, Ohio, last week.

"They expressed a spirit of cooperation and a belief in what can be done that is not among state and local governments," Gilligan said.

"Over and over again, I was told that the program was offering to the Appalachian residents hope, opportunity and a chance to cooperate on a regional basis to rebuild the economy."

But Gilligan said the job is not done yet. "Even with positive signs of an economic recovery, the region still lags behind the nation in growth."

Jury May Study Woman's Death

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — The Lorain County grand jury may take up the shooting death of Shirley O'Rourke Thursday, according to county courthouse sources.

Prosecutor Joseph R. Grunda has called the grand jury into special session but declined to comment on reasons for the call.

Mrs. O'Rourke, 49, was killed Feb. 2, and her husband, Edward O'Rourke, president and golf pro at Westlake Golf Course, told authorities the shooting was an accident. O'Rourke was questioned then released after Grunda and Sheriff Vernon Smith said they found no evidence to support criminal charges.

Shift Venue In Shooting

CINCINNATI (AP) — The first change of venue in Hamilton County in 15 years was granted Tuesday for two Avondale section youths charged with seriously wounding a police officer last August as he sat in his cruiser.

Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Judge Gilbert Bettman ruled that Clifford Lee Davenport, 20, and Gerrard Harvey, 20, could not receive a fair trial in Hamilton County because of public pressure.

"If the courts don't grant more changes of venue in cases such as this," Judge Bettman said, "eventually the cases will be bounced back by the higher courts."

The pair were accused of shoooting Patrolman David Schindler. The officer has been unable to return to full duty.

No county was immediately selected for the place of trial.

CHILTON, England (AP) — Ten-year-old Jack Usher wept when his football got stuck in the chimney of his Buckinghamshire home. That was 32 years ago.

Now greengrocer Usher has his ball back. He got it when the house was demolished. "The bladder had rotted and there was a small hole in the case, but apart from that it was fine," he said.

Views On TV-Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — With the return of Apollo 14 to earth and the Southern California earthquake, daytime television Tuesday was filled with real drama.

The networks moved fast to handle news of the destructive quake by interrupting regular programming with brief, printed bulletins. NBC had a short summary in the early afternoon and preempted a soap opera in midafternoon for an excellent, comprehensive review which included some live pictures and showed rescue efforts in some crumbled buildings. It followed with a 15-minute special report after its movie broadcast.

CBS presented resumes before and after its Apollo coverage.

A television report of the moon visitors' return has never been so clear and complete. Viewers could see the spaceship as it shot into view, dropping the drague chute and breaking out the three yellow-orange parachutes that carried it into the Pacific waters. A camera in a hovering helicopter made it possible to watch the entire recovery operation from a front row seat.

While the network teams were well prepared, the presence of astronauts made for some interesting commentary. Alan L. Bean on NBC, especially, added an extra dimension to the splash-down coverage by recalling his emotions and activities in the minutes before leaving the space capsule. NBC's Audience Research Department estimates that 52 million people saw all or some of the Apollo coverage during the day.

After the drama of the day, the fictional efforts spun of the Hollywood production lines seemed anticlimatic.

Even so, ABC's special, "Stand Up and Cheer" was a jolly, bouncy hour of music that came wrapped in cheerful red, white and blue.

The hour was based on a Las Vegas stage show worked up by Johnny Mann who was Joey Bishop's musical director and frequent foil.

Most of the sound and action came from the Johnny Mann Singers, an attractive group of 18 young men and women. They tackled very well everything from Gospel and "Stardust" to late Bacharach. Pearl Bailey strolled out for some spontaneous talk with a bunch of cute kids. Henry Fonda was there to do a little talking about the greatness of the nation and some of its great men.

The program, coming just before the birthdays of two celebrated Americans, struck a deliberately patriotic and nostalgic note.

The island of Java ranks as one of the world's most densely peopled lands, averaging 1,500 persons per square mile.

MEKONG BRIDGE PROTECTED—Cambodian soldiers roll large barbed wire barricades onto a barge for placement around a bridge over the Mekong River at Phnom Penh. These and smaller traps are being used to protect the bridge from sabotage.

Gilligan Says Appalachian Program Has Aided Ohioans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan told a Congressional committee in written testimony today the Appalachian development program has been responsible for major economic improvements in 28 southern Ohio counties.

Gilligan supported the Randolph-Cooper Appalachia Bill, which would retain the present program, in testimony presented to a Senate Public Works subcommittee.

The Ohio governor said more than $250 million in federal, state and local funds have been invested in the state's Appalachia area since the program began.

The program has resulted in the construction of 19 hospitals and health centers, six vocational schools, 70 miles of development highways, numerous water and sewage facilites, land conservation and further development of the region's human resources, Gilligan said.

"These are projects which have helped to reverse the downward trend of the region's economy," the governor said. "Without Appalachian funds it is doubtful that these projects would have been undertaken."

As a result of the program, Gilligan said, 23 of Ohio's 28 Appalachian counties reduced their unemployment rates — even to below the national average — and 19 counties had growth in their effective buying income higher than the national average.

Gilligan said the impact of the program on the lives of public officials and their constituents in the area was quite apparent at a public hearing he attended in Athens, Ohio, last week.

"They expressed a spirit of cooperation and a belief in what can be done that is not among state and local governments," Gilligan said.

"Over and over again, I was told that the program was offering to the Appalachian residents hope, opportunity and a chance to cooperate on a regional basis to rebuild the economy."

But Gilligan said the job is not done yet. "Even with positive signs of an economic recovery, the region still lags behind the nation in growth."

Jury May Study Woman's Death

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — The Lorain County grand jury may take up the shooting death of Shirley O'Rourke Thursday, according to county courthouse sources.

Prosecutor Joseph R. Grunda has called the grand jury into special session but declined to comment on reasons for the call.

Mrs. O'Rourke, 49, was killed Feb. 2, and her husband, Edward O'Rourke, president and golf pro at Westlake Golf Course, told authorities the shooting was an accident. O'Rourke was questioned then released after Grunda and Sheriff Vernon Smith said they found no evidence to support criminal charges.

Shift Venue In Shooting

CINCINNATI (AP) — The first change of venue in Hamilton County in 15 years was granted Tuesday for two Avondale section youths charged with seriously wounding a police officer last August as he sat in his cruiser.

Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Judge Gilbert Bettman ruled that Clifford Lee Davenport, 20, and Gerrard Harvey, 20, could not receive a fair trial in Hamilton County because of public pressure.

"If the courts don't grant more changes of venue in cases such as this," Judge Bettman said, "eventually the cases will be bounced back by the higher courts."

The pair were accused of shoooting Patrolman David Schindler. The officer has been unable to return to full duty.

No county was immediately selected for the place of trial.

Homemaker's Hint from...
Betty Brown Big Bear's Own Home Economist

ENRICHMENT-WISE

For Nutrition-wise, money-wise, buying, enriched bread is one of the homemaker's best buys. The historic staff of life is a good source of protein and other necessary nutrients, and has remained low in cost per serving. The highly qualified scientific advisory committee of the American Institute of Baking cite several scientific studies where adults and children were maintained for long periods of time on diets predominantly of enriched bread. Obviously, vitamins A,D, and C were furnished by other foods, as they are in normal consumer diet. Enriched bread is nutritious. But man does not live by bread alone. Nor need he, nor should he. But if people are hungry and have only meager funds, bread truly can be their staff of life. For those able to afford a more varied diet, enriched bread, in its many forms, provides a diversity of flavors and textures for their meals, while at the same time contributing to their nutritive needs.

Homemaker's Hint from...

Betty Brown Big Bear's Own Home Economist

ENRICHMENT-WISE

For Nutrition-wise, money-wise, buying, enriched bread is one of the homemaker's best buys. The historic staff of life is a good source of protein and other necessary nutrients, and has remained low in cost per serving. The highly qualified scientific advisory committee of the American Institute of Baking cite several scientific studies where adults and children were maintained for long periods of time on diets predominantly of enriched bread. Obviously, vitamins A,D, and C were furnished by other foods, as they are in normal consumer diet. Enriched bread is nutritious. But man does not live by bread alone. Nor need he, nor should he. But if people are hungry and have only meager funds, bread truly can be their staff of life. For those able to afford a more varied diet, enriched bread, in its many forms, provides a diversity of flavors and textures for their meals, while at the same time contributing to their nutritive needs.

Campuses Return To Calm, School Chief Tells Solons

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — "A new mood of quiet" apparently is settling over the nation's college campuses, says Cleveland State University President Harold L. Enarson.

Dr. Enarson told a state legislative subcommittee studying campus disorders that this new mood is one of the few similarities being shared by the nation's campuses.

Enarson told the subcommittee meeting here Monday that he thinks there "has occurred a kind of emotional exhaustion" and he added that most students seem to "have come to recognize the futility of violence."

"For the first time in 30 years, college graduates are facing restriction in job opportunities," he said, noting that it is a situation that is producing more concern for higher academic performance.

Enarson was one of 13 persons appearing before the subcommittee headed by State Sen. Theodore M. Gray, R-3 Piqua. The subcommittee is an offshoot of the Ohio Legislative Committee on Campus Disorders.

The state "for many years used its state universities as milk cows from which a rich product was taken while only a minimum of care was given," said Patrick Mann, a CSU student vice president. He urged more state financial aid to education.

A mood of "positive involvement" prevails at CSU, said Peg Polley, associate dean for student life. She said that legislators should take action to meet the "rather unique" problems of the Cleveland school, including limited parking room for the large number of local commuting students, limited financial aid to students and limited jobs for student workers.

A concern that not enough black students were being admitted was voiced by Willie Miles, president of the CSU Society for Afro-American Unity, and Ralph L. Pruitt, CSU black studies director.

DWI Test Slashes British Accidents

LONDON (AP) — The breath test has slashed Britain's road deaths and serious injuries by almost one-fifth during the most dangerous time of day between 10 p.m. and 4 a.m., the government announced recently.

"The breath test is still saving lives," a spokesman said. However total road deaths between January and September 1970 rose 1 per cent to more than 5,100.

Chinese Coed's Report Card Draws Byrd From Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — It takes a pretty special event to get Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd off the Senate floor during debate, something like an 18-year-old Chinese coed who wants to show the West Virginian her report card.

"I received three A's and two B's," Scarlet Cheng told Byrd after asking that he leave the Senate and meet her outside the chamber. The senator has built a reputation on not leaving the floor, but a special interest in Miss Cheng, an American University student, resulted in the rare exception.

He and Mrs. Byrd set up an $8,000 scholarship fund for Scarlet after her dying mother left America to return home to Taiwan.

The Byrds met Scarlet and her mother several years ago while visiting Chinese restaurants in Virginia. Scarlet then attended puplic schools in Vienna, a Washington suburb.

As Scarlet and her mother boarded a plane for Taiwan, they were handed a letter from Byrd, pledging to send Scarlet to college if she did well in Taipei's American high school.

The senator had even suggested a college for Scarlet: American University where he got his law degree in 1963, putting in his regular hours in the Senate and going to class at night.

Now Scarlet is a freshman at American. Her tuition is paid by fees Byrd earned from nationwide lecture tours and teaching legislative seminars at American.

Byrd, the father of two daughters, uses some of his salary for scholarships to West Virginia students.

Department Director Richard E. Guggenheim said today he hopes to name two deputy directors soon.

He said one deputy would be concerned with enforcing control board regulations and the other would be in charge of merchandizing.

He indicated Laws may get on eof the posts, but declined to say which.

New Mexico Movies Number 18 In 1970

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Eighteen motion pictures, with budgets totaling $14,370,000, were produced in New Mexico during 1970.

At times, there were two and three productions going on simultaneously in the same community. For several weeks during the fall months, three films were being made at the same time in the Albuquerque area.

Six productions were filmed in and around Albuquerque during 1970 and seven were filmed in the Santa Fe area. Several other communities also benefitted from some movie production.

Man Wins Rights Case

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Thanks to two determined attorneys and two law students, 10 years of wrongful imprisonment have ended for Timothy Reed, 25, who has been ordered transferred from Lima State Hospital to Cleveland State hospital.

Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Judge Frank J. Gorman discharged Reed Monday, saying the man's civil rights had been violated when he pleaded guilty to auto theft Nov. 2, 1960, without aid of legal counsel.

Reed, who was 16 at the time, started serving a one-to-20-year prison sentence at the Ohio Reformatory and then was transferred to Lima State, a hospital for the criminally insane.

The judge commended Vetus J. Syracuse, graduated from Case Western Reserve Law School last year, CWRU law professor Ovid C. Lewis, and two CWRU law students, Edward F. Tetleman and Ruth Weider for their work in the case.

Gorman read part of a report from Lima State which said Reed was mentally ill and needed further psychiatric help, but not a hospital for the criminally insane.

See Laos Leader Undermined By Invasion

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some Asian diplomats are saying privately the U.S. supported South Vietnamese invasion of Laos has weakened the political standing of Prince Souvanna Phouma, neutralist premier of Laos.

It was learned as well the French had argued the invasion would undermine Souvanna's neutrality, which has been enhanced by his record in keeping Americans out of southern Laos.

The gist of the argument was that North Vietnam and its Laotian ally, the Pathet Lao, will use the South Vietnamese attack as an excuse to step up their own activities.

American officials acknowledge Souvanna's position was a prime consideration during the planning that preceded the attack, but they say they concluded he will survive the situation.

Although Souvanna protested when American troops were sent across the border two years ago for a brief period, he has called for and received U.S. help in the past when he claimed his nation's sovereignty was endangered by North Vietnam and the Pathet Lao.

A State Department publication on Laos says that in 1963, when North Vietnam and the Pathet Lao attacked neutralist forces and fortified the Ho Chi Minh trail area in southeastern Laos, the prime minister requested American aid in the form of supplies and ammunition. This assistance was given in accordance with Article VI of the 1962 Geneva agreement, which allows introduction of arms into Laos for national defense purposes.

It was under this same article that the United States responded in 1964 to requests by the Laotian government to counter a Communist escalation on the Plain of Jars and the Ho Chi Minh trail by launching interdicting flight missions against the North Vietnamese.

But the Geneva accord has another article forbidding introduction of foreign military forces into the country. Two years ago Laos protested when U. S. Marines occupied some hills in that country for about a week as part of a sweep near the border in South Vietnam.

The Geneva accord also apparently was the reason the old format of a government request for help in self-defense could not be used when South Vietnamese troops entered Laos over the weekend.

Instead, Souvanna issued a statement calling for withdrawal of all foreign troops from Laos, South Vietnamese as well as North Vietnamese. The prime minister declared the primary responsibility for the invasion of the kingdom was due to North Vietnam's use of the Ho Chi Minh trail.

At this point the prince finds himself in a position of condemning the South Vietnamese-U.S. air operation in the southern panhandle while depending upon U.S. air support for the war against the Pathet Lao and North Vietnamese in northern Laos.

OSU Council Gains Students

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio State University faculty Council was scheduled to meet today with new student members taking seats for the first time.

University trustees have approved a total of 33 seats for students, but only 17 will be at today's meeting. The remainder will be selected by other student groups.

On the agenda are proposals to add one non-voting faculty member and student to the board of trustees and to review student disciplinary hearings.

Air Passenger Jailed

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Fred L. Dunlap, 42, of Cincinnati, was held in the Newport, Ky., jail under $10,000 bond while awaiting federal grand jury action. Dunlap was arrested by U. S. Marshals at Greater Cincinnati Airport Sunday while trying to board a Trans World Airlines flight to New York City with a revolver in his possession.

Poles Hopeful New Red Line Will Stick

WARSAW (AP) — A new message giving hope to Poles has gone out from Communist party leader Edward Gierek: "Hard work provides a car, a house and more consumer goods."

The riot-shaken country is buoyed by Gierek's new line, which replaces the grim command of ousted party chieftain Wladyslaw Gomulka: "Work harder and you'll get a new steel factory."

Some color is promised for the Pole's gray existence as a result of the meeting last weekend of the party Central Committee, which approved Gerek's plan for restoring the party's image and easing the severe economic crisis.

No details have been made public, but at least the promise sounds good to the average Pole earning $100 a month, the price of a cheap suit.

Until now he had little chance of improving his dull existence: The Gomulka regime pumped the national income into key industrial sectors in order to catch up with more highly developed countries.

Gierek, on the other hand, realizes there has to be a balance between heavy and consumer industries. His new leadership is telling the nation Gomuka failed miserably in this goal.

This is no surprise to most Poles, who during the last years of Gomulka's reign suffered chronic shortages.

Simmering economic discontent boiled over into bloody riots in the Baltic parts just before Christmas when Gomulka blasted the housewife's purse with large hikes in food prices.

See Laos Leader Undermined By Invasion

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some Asian diplomats are saying privately the U.S. supported South Vietnamese invasion of Laos has weakened the political standing of Prince Souvanna Phouma, neutralist premier of Laos.

It was learned as well the French had argued the invasion would undermine Souvanna's neutrality, which has been enhanced by his record in keeping Americans out of southern Laos.

The gist of the argument was that North Vietnam and its Laotian ally, the Pathet Lao, will use the South Vietnamese attack as an excuse to step up their own activities.

American officials acknowledge Souvanna's position was a prime consideration during the planning that preceded the attack, but they say they concluded he will survive the situation.

Although Souvanna protested when American troops were sent across the border two years ago for a brief period, he has called for and received U.S. help in the past when he claimed his nation's sovereignty was endangered by North Vietnam and the Pathet Lao.

A State Department publication on Laos says that in 1963, when North Vietnam and the Pathet Lao attacked neutralist forces and fortified the Ho Chi Minh trail area in southeastern Laos, the prime minister requested American aid in the form of supplies and ammunition. This assistance was given in accordance with Article VI of the 1962 Geneva agreement, which allows introduction of arms into Laos for national defense purposes.

It was under this same article that the United States responded in 1964 to requests by the Laotian government to counter a Communist escalation on the Plain of Jars and the Ho Chi Minh trail by launching interdicting flight missions against the North Vietnamese.

But the Geneva accord has another article forbidding introduction of foreign military forces into the country. Two years ago Laos protested when U. S. Marines occupied some hills in that country for about a week as part of a sweep near the border in South Vietnam.

The Geneva accord also apparently was the reason the old format of a government request for help in self-defense could not be used when South Vietnamese troops entered Laos over the weekend.

Instead, Souvanna issued a statement calling for withdrawal of all foreign troops from Laos, South Vietnamese as well as North Vietnamese. The prime minister declared the primary responsibility for the invasion of the kingdom was due to North Vietnam's use of the Ho Chi Minh trail.

At this point the prince finds himself in a position of condemning the South Vietnamese-U.S. air operation in the southern panhandle while depending upon U.S. air support for the war against the Pathet Lao and North Vietnamese in northern Laos.

Poles Hopeful New Red Line Will Stick

WARSAW (AP) — A new message giving hope to Poles has gone out from Communist party leader Edward Gierek: "Hard work provides a car, a house and more consumer goods."

The riot-shaken country is buoyed by Gierek's new line, which replaces the grim command of ousted party chieftain Wladyslaw Gomulka: "Work harder and you'll get a new steel factory."

Some color is promised for the Pole's gray existence as a result of the meeting last weekend of the party Central Committee, which approved Gerek's plan for restoring the party's image and easing the severe economic crisis.

No details have been made public, but at least the promise sounds good to the average Pole earning $100 a month, the price of a cheap suit.

Until now he had little chance of improving his dull existence: The Gomulka regime pumped the national income into key industrial sectors in order to catch up with more highly developed countries.

Gierek, on the other hand, realizes there has to be a balance between heavy and consumer industries. His new leadership is telling the nation Gomulka failed miserably in this goal.

This is no surprise to most Poles, who during the last years of Gomulka's reign suffered chronic shortages.

Simmering economic discontent boiled over into bloody riots in the Baltic parts just before Christmas when Gomulka blasted the housewife's purse with large hikes in food prices.

OSU Council Gains Students

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio State University faculty Council was scheduled to meet today with new student members taking seats for the first time.

University trustees have approved a total of 33 seats for students, but only 17 will be at today's meeting. The remainder will be selected by other student groups.

On the agenda are proposals to add one non-voting faculty member and student to the board of trustees and to review student disciplinary hearings.

HARBOR SIGHTS—Boats of the New Bedford, Mass., fishing fleet make their way through the ice outside the harbor after owners and fish buyers came to an agreement over fish prices, ending an 18-day tieup.

Questions Taxpayers Ask

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a pubic service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

(Q) To have you compute my tax, should I just bring my return into an IRS office?

A) No, the computation is done at the IRS service center for your area when you file your return. The IRS will figure your tax if your income is $20,000 or less and consists only of wages or salaries, and tips, dividends, interest, pensions, and annuities and you choose the standard deduction instead of itemizing deductions.

The IRS will figure both the retirement income credit and your tax for you if you meet the income and deduction requirements. Just follow the instructions at the top of Schedule R. Be sure to attach the necessary schedules and W-2's and sign your return. Further details on this can be found on Page 2 of the 1040 instructions.

Q) My son made over $1,000 last year. Does that mean I'll lose his exemption?

A) The amount of your son's earnings will not change his dependency status if he was either a full-time student during five months of the year or under 19 at year's end. The support and other dependency tests must still be met, however.

Q) Since I was not married until last fall, I was single most of the year. Can I file a joint return?

A) Yes, your marital status for tax purposes is determined by what it was on the last day of you tax year. For example, someone married on the last day of the year is considered married for the entire year.

Q) I've been told I don't have to pay tax on the pay I received while I was out sick. Is that right?

A) You may not be taxed on all or part of your pay received for periods of sickness provided certain conditions are met. Details on how to claim this benefit are given on Form 2440 which may be obtained from any local IRS office.

To summarize the sick pay provisions, if your company paid you more than 75 per cent of your regular pay then you must wait 30 days before you can exclude any pay from income. After the waiting period, you may exclude up to $100 a week.

If you received 75 per cent or less of your pay there is a 7-day waiting period. Afterwards, you may exclude up to $5 a week. After 30 days you may exclude up to $100 a week. However, if you were hospitalized there is no 7-day waiting period.

Q) I had about $45 in interest last year from several savings accounts. Do I have to list how much I got from each of them?

A) In cases where interest income is $100 or less, just enter the total amount of your interest income on the front of your Form 1040. When interest income is over $100 it has to be itemized by amount and payor and entered on Schedule B.

Q) My tax situation looks so complicated this year that I want to get some paid professional help this year. Where can I get a reliable person to help me?

A) Call your local accounting, legal or tax practitioner association. They will be able to supply you with the names of qualified people.

Avoid any person who "guarantees" you a refund or who suggests that the refund be sent to his address. Also, you should never sign a blank return or one that has been prepared in pencil. Remember, you are legally responsible for every item on your return even though someone else helped you prepare it.

Q) What's the surcharge rate for 1970 income?

A) The income tax surcharge for 1970 is 2½ per cent. Tables on the surcharge are included with the 1040 instructions.

Q) I had a loss on some shares of stock I sold last year. Is this deductible?

A) Yes, capital losses are deductible and can be used to offset capital gains. In addition, capital losses can be used to offset other income up to a maximum of $1,000 a year. The limit is $500 each on the returns of married persons filing separately.

Note that the 1969 Tax Reform Act did make some changes in the handling of capital losses. While short term losses are still fully deductible from ordinary income, only one-half of the excess of the net long term capital loss over the net short term capital gain is deductible up to the $1,000 maximum.

Q) My wife and I both work. Should we file joint or separate returns?

A) Usually, married taxpayers will pay less tax if they file joint rather than separate returns. Since there are situations where this is not true, figure your tax both ways to find out which is best for you.

Note that when separate returns are filed, deductions must be handled the same way on both returns. If one itemizes, so must the other. If the standard deduction is used, both must use the same type, either the percentage deduction or the low income allowance.

Japan Is Buyer For Maple Syrup

OTTAWA (AP) —Japan buys more than $3 million worth of Canadian maple syrup each year, mainly from Quebec, but it's not for eating.

Officials of the Japan Tobacco Monopoly, during a recent tour, disclosed that the maple syrup is used to flavor tobacco to the Japanese taste.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Man Stricken; People Pass By

DEAR ABBY: A very dear man I knew had a stroke in the lobby of his place of business. He lay on the floor in that lobby for about an hour and a half. It was nearly rush hour. I suppose people thought he was drunk so they passed him by. He died the following day.

That fine man had a young people's group in church. I am one of the young people.

The message I want to convey through your widely-read column, Abby, is this: Please, if you see someone in need, drunk, sick, no matter what, tell a guard at the door or a policeman. Don't ignore him. Do what you can to help him. You may save his life.

"Mr. L." had a stroke and a cerebral hemorrhage. He may have died even if he had been taken to a hospital immediately. But at least he wouldn't have died all alone on the cold floor of a lobby.

J. C., STATEN ISLAND, N.Y.

DEAR J.C.: If your letter changes the thinking of only one person who would deny help to a stranger because he doesn't want to "get involved," it's well worth the space in any newspaper. Thank you for writing.

DEAR ABBY: I am a grown woman with a good husband, three nice sons and a full busy life. But "Wrong Way Corrigan" has nothing on me. I do a lot of traveling, to and from dog shows, and I always allow myself at least one hour in which to get lost. I don't mean a chance wrong turn, I mean really lost!

Even If I have been there before, I always get hopelessly turned around and have to stop and ask directions. Sometimes I have to stop and ask directions two and three times. I am a careful driver and I am considered fairly intelligent, but I have absolutely no sense of direction.

My husband says I get lost because I have no self-confidence and I set out "expecting" to get lost. Can that be? Are there others like me? Have you any suggestions

"LOST" IN VA.

DEAR LOST: Don't be ashamed. Some of our brainiest people get lost a lot. Recommended solution: Don't start out unless you have written instructions on how to get where you're going. If you should get lost, stop at once and ask for help. (And be sure to listen carefully so that you understand the directions.) Also always take a telephone number of the place you're headed for in case you want to call them and ask how to get there. If that fails, carry a compass, a Bible and a survival kit.

DEAR ABBY: I am tired of hearing about what big slobs women are. My friends and neighbors probably consider me a slob because of the way my house looks most of the time, but let me tell you my side of it.

The minute my husband gets in the house he takes off his coat and shirt and drapes them across the back of the chair. Then he takes off his tie and hangs it on the doorknob. He goes to the fridge, gets a couple of cans of beer and a snack, takes them into the living room and settles down to read the paper and watch TV. But first he takes off his shoes and socks. Pretty soon I have crumbs all over the floor and beer cans sitting around and half-eaten food left here and there.

After he washes up to go out, there's toothpaste spattered on the mirror, wash rags in the sink, wet towels on the floor, shaving cream on the bathroom wall, deodorant and after shave, razor and hairbrush standing on the sink or tank top.

And I hate to tell you what kind of disaster area is left behind when my man finally gets around to changing a washer on a leaky faucet.

SLOB'S WIFE: MILWAUKEE

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

HARBOR SIGHTS—Boats of the New Bedford, Mass., fishing fleet make their way through the ice outside the harbor after owners and fish buyers came to an agreement over fish prices, ending an 18-day tieup.

Questions Taxpayers Ask

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a pubic service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

(Q) To have you compute my tax, should I just bring my return into an IRS office?

A) No, the computation is done at the IRS service center for your area when you file your return. The IRS will figure your tax if your income is $20,000 or less and consists only of wages or salaries, and tips, dividends, interest, pensions, and annuities and you choose the standard deduction instead of itemizing deductions.

The IRS will figure both the retirement income credit and your tax for you if you meet the income and deduction requirements. Just follow the instructions at the top of Schedule R. Be sure to attach the necessary schedules and W-2's and sign your return. Further details on this can be found on Page 2 of the 1040 instructions.

Q) My son made over $1,000 last year. Does that mean I'll lose his exemption?

A) The amount of your son's earnings will not change his dependency status if he was either a full-time student during five months of the year or under 19 at year's end. The support and other dependency tests must still be met, however.

Q) Since I was not married until last fall, I was single most of the year. Can I file a joint return?

A) Yes, your marital status for tax purposes is determined by what it was on the last day of you tax year. For example, someone married on the last day of the year is considered married for the entire year.

Q) I've been told I don't have to pay tax on the pay I received while I was out sick. Is that right?

A) You may not be taxed on all or part of your pay received for periods of sickness provided certain conditions are met. Details on how to claim this benefit are given on Form 2440 which may be obtained from any local IRS office.

To summarize the sick pay provisions, if your company paid you more than 75 per cent of your regular pay then you must wait 30 days before you can exclude any pay from income. After the waiting period, you may exclude up to $100 a week.

If you received 75 per cent or less of your pay there is a 7-day waiting period. Afterwards, you may exclude up to $5 a week. After 30 days you may exclude up to $100 a week. However, if you were hospitalized there is no 7-day waiting period.

Q) I had about $45 in interest last year from several savings accounts. Do I have to list how much I got from each of them?

A) In cases where interest income is $100 or less, just enter the total amount of your interest income on the front of your Form 1040. When interest income is over $100 it has to be itemized by amount and payor and entered on Schedule B.

Q) My tax situation looks so complicated this year that I want to get some paid professional help this year. Where can I get a reliable person to help me?

A) Call your local accounting, legal or tax practitioner association. They will be able to supply you with the names of qualified people.

Avoid any person who "guarantees" you a refund or who suggests that the refund be sent to his address. Also, you should never sign a blank return or one that has been prepared in pencil. Remember, you are legally responsible for every item on your return even though someone else helped you prepare it.

Q) What's the surcharge rate for 1970 income?

A) The income tax surcharge for 1970 is 2½ per cent. Tables on the surcharge are included with the 1040 instructions.

Q) I had a loss on some shares of stock I sold last year. Is this deductible?

A) Yes, capital losses are deductible and can be used to offset capital gains. In addition, capital losses can be used to offset other income up to a maximum of $1,000 a year. The limit is $500 each on the returns of married persons filing separately.

Note that the 1969 Tax Reform Act did make some changes in the handling of capital losses. While short term losses are still fully deductible from ordinary income, only one-half of the excess of the net long term capital loss over the net short term capital gain is deductible up to the $1,000 maximum.

Q) My wife and I both work. Should we file joint or separate returns?

A) Usually, married taxpayers will pay less tax if they file joint rather than separate returns. Since there are situations where this is not true, figure your tax both ways to find out which is best for you.

Note that when separate returns are filed, deductions must be handled the same way on both returns. If one itemizes, so must the other. If the standard deduction is used, both must use the same type, either the percentage deduction or the low income allowance.

Japan Is Buyer For Maple Syrup

OTTAWA (AP) —Japan buys more than $3 million worth of Canadian maple syrup each year, mainly from Quebec, but it's not for eating.

Officials of the Japan Tobacco Monopoly, during a recent tour, disclosed that the maple syrup is used to flavor tobacco to the Japanese taste.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Man Stricken; People Pass By

DEAR ABBY: A very dear man I knew had a stroke in the lobby of his place of business. He lay on the floor in that lobby for about an hour and a half. It was nearly rush hour. I suppose people thought he was drunk so they passed him by. He died the following day.

That fine man had a young people's group in church. I am one of the young people.

The message I want to convey through your widely-read column, Abby, is this: Please, if you see someone in need, drunk, sick, no matter what, tell a guard at the door or a policeman. Don't ignore him. Do what you can to help him. You may save his life.

"Mr. L." had a stroke and a cerebral hemorrhage. He may have died even if he had been taken to a hospital immediately. But at least he wouldn't have died all alone on the cold floor of a lobby.

J. C., STATEN ISLAND, N.Y.

DEAR J.C.: If your letter changes the thinking of only one person who would deny help to a stranger because he doesn't want to "get involved," it's well worth the space in any newspaper. Thank you for writing.

DEAR ABBY: I am a grown woman with a good husband, three nice sons and a full busy life. But "Wrong Way Corrigan" has nothing on me. I do a lot of traveling, to and from dog shows, and I always allow myself at least one hour in which to get lost. I don't mean a chance wrong turn, I mean really lost!

Even If I have been there before, I always get hopelessly turned around and have to stop and ask directions. Sometimes I have to stop and ask directions two and three times. I am a careful driver and I am considered fairly intelligent, but I have absolutely no sense of direction.

My husband says I get lost because I have no self-confidence and I set out "expecting" to get lost. Can that be? Are there others like me? Have you any suggestions

"LOST" IN VA.

DEAR LOST: Don't be ashamed. Some of our brainiest people get lost a lot. Recommended solution: Don't start out unless you have written instructions on how to get where you're going. If you should get lost, stop at once and ask for help. (And be sure to listen carefully so that you understand the directions.) Also always take a telephone number of the place you're headed for in case you want to call them and ask how to get there. If that fails, carry a compass, a Bible and a survival kit.

DEAR ABBY: I am tired of hearing about what big slobs women are. My friends and neighbors probably consider me a slob because of the way my house looks most of the time, but let me tell you my side of it.

The minute my husband gets in the house he takes off his coat and shirt and drapes them across the back of the chair. Then he takes off his tie and hangs it on the doorknob. He goes to the fridge, gets a couple of cans of beer and a snack, takes them into the living room and settles down to read the paper and watch TV. But first he takes off his shoes and socks. Pretty soon I have crumbs all over the floor and beer cans sitting around and half-eaten food left here and there.

After he washes up to go out, there's toothpaste spattered on the mirror, wash rags in the sink, wet towels on the floor, shaving cream on the bathroom wall, deodorant and after shave, razor and hairbrush standing on the sink or tank top.

And I hate to tell you what kind of disaster area is left behind when my man finally gets around to changing a washer on a leaky faucet.

SLOB'S WIFE: MILWAUKEE

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Lost Chord

BURY, ST. EDMUNDS, England (AP) — Jenny Beak, 22, put too much gusto into her part in The Desert Song, performed before a capacity crowd in a Suffolk theater. By accident she flung a three foot steel sword into the orchestra pit, just missing the first violinist's head but smashing his violin.

Water Pollution Control Board Acts On Safeguards

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Water Pollution Control Board enacted Tuesday a set of required safeguards aimed at preventing accidental spills of toxic wastes by industries.

A resolution approved by the board requires handlers and users of toxic materials "to eliminate every conceivable possibility" of accidental discharge.

The safeguards require that:

—Lists of all toxic chemicals used in industrial, commercial, agricultural and related operations be filed with the Ohio Department of Health.

—Non-toxic materials be substituted, where practicable.

—Educational programs be instituted to insure that all personnel handling toxic materials are aware of their hazards.

—Fail-safe provisions be installed to prevent the release of any quantity sufficient to be hazardous to human health or to fish and wildlife.

—Means be developed to detect accidental discharges.

—Emergency holding facilities be constructed, where considered necessary, to prevent discharges of waste water accidentally contaminated with intoxicants.

The control board said it would ask the attorney general's office to prosecute anyone polluting Ohio waters who had not complied with the safeguards.

In other action, the board:

—Refused to lift a sewer and water line tap-in ban imposed on the City of Cleveland which has had the effect of freezing new construction.

—Imposed a similar building freeze on New Lexington until June 8 and ordered the village to put its sewage treatment plant in good operating condition and to hire a fulltime operator.

—Continued violation cases involving Ashtabula County Sewer District 2, City of Amherst, Village of College Corner, Columbiana County Sewer District 2 and the Hamilton County Metropolitan Sewer District, Springfield subdistrict.

Corporations Help Alcoholic Employes

NEW YORK (AP) — Over 300 corporations have started active programs whose practical aim in helping problem drinkers to recover is to save the skills and experience of valuable employees.

"That kind of penetration isn't even scratching the surface," according to Dr. Luther Cloud, president of the National Council on Alcoholism, sponsors of January's Alcoholism Information Month.

He points out that every 13th employee is an alcoholic and these people are estimated to cost American business over $6,000.000,000 yearly.

Dr. Cloud says that 90 per cent of the industry's problem drinkers range from age 30 to 55 and have been on their jobs for 12 to 20 years.

"Thousands of more firms starting active programs to aid problem drinkers would result in tremendous dividends to the companies, and save them millions," Dr. Cloud adds.

Food Prices Catch Wages

First 'Balance' In Past 12 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food costs rose as fast as wages last year, catching up for the first time in 12 years, the Agriculture Department says.

Take home pay and food costs jumped 5.5 per cent each in 1970, with 16.7 cents of each dollar going to food bills. It was the same cost-per dollar as in 1969, a point reached in gradual declines since a peak of 20.9 cents in 1958.

This year, the report said, total food costs will continue to rise but at a much slower rate, perhaps only 2 to 3 per cent.

In fact, the report said, food bought at retail stores in 1971 may average only 1 to 2 per cent higher, compared with a 5 per cent supermarket boost last year.

But prices in restaurants will continue rising at a faster clip. Last year they went up 7.5 per cent, an increase the report said might be shaved a bit in 1971.

Retail store prices for pork, eggs, poultry, potatoes and some vegetables are expected to drop, while higher prices are forecast for fish, dairy products cereals, sugar and processed vegetables.

In all, the nation's food bill could total between $118 billion and $121 billion in 1971, compared with $114.3 billion last year, a $9-billion gain from 1969.

Although the USDA report indicated hopes food prices may not gain as much this year, the department's batting average in this category is not without blemish.

A year ago, in a similar report, the department predicted all food prices in 1970 would gain 3.5 to 4 per cent. But the forecast had to be revised several times before the year ended with the 5.5 per cent increase.

Bar Association Backs Federal Use Of Wiretaps

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Bar Association has endorsed the federal government's claim that it has the right to use electronic listening devices secretly in investigations into organized crime and foreign subversion.

The 297 members of the ABA's policy-making House of Delegates voted Monday approval of standards which opponents complained resembled too closely the wiretap regulations in the Omnibus Crime Act of 1968.

The ABA action established guidelines on the secret electronic listening devices which advocates said they hoped would be followed by 38 states which have no wiretap statutes.

The delegates voted down three proposed amendments that would have limited approval for use of electronic surveillance.

Supporters of the amendments said the delegates were endorsing action of a kind which the U.S. Supreme Court has held unconstitutionl in the past.

Jerome J. Shestack, a Philadelphia lawyer opposed to all government wiretapping, said, "The ABA standards have never been used to endorse an act of legislation and should not be so used now."

He also said the delegates were wrong in ending the ABA's six-year study of electronic surveillance while deferring action on controversial stop-and-frisk and search-and seizure laws.

Prior to the vote Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst praised wiretapping as an effective weapon against gamblers and narcotics dealers.

Kleindienst said that since passage of the Omnibus Crime Act, which empowers the government to tap phones for specified crimes with prior approval by a federal court, federal agents have obtained 253 court orders for eavesdropping in 163 gambling investigations, 58 cases of narcotics violations and 21 extortion cases.

William J. Jameson of Billings, Mont., a retired federal judge and chief advocate of the standards, told the delegates: "We need these standards to guide state legislators."

Judge Jack G. Day of Cleveland, a leader of the fight for limiting amendments, said, "We entrust not to clergymen, doctors or lawyers, but to police, the right to determine when they will get into our lives."

Four Seasons Trustee Hirschfield Resigns

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The court-appointed trustee for Four Seasons Nursing Centers of America, Inc., Norman Hirschfield, resigned Tuesday and was immediately replaced by an Oklahoma City investment counselor.

Four Seasons was loaned $4 million by Ohio in March of 1970. The company failed to meet a $2 million note due the state last July.

Hirschfield said in a letter to Chief U. S. Dist. Court Judge Luther Bohanon that he needed to look after his own business, a management consulting firm.

30 Persons Killed In Derailment Of German Train

KAUFBEUREN, Germany (AP) — A state prosecutor today blamed excessive speed on a curve for the derailment of the Munich - Zurich express, which caused one of the worst train wrecks in West German history.

Shortly after the three cars of the express spilled over on an adjacent track Tuesday night 48 miles southwest of Munich, a four-car local smashed into the wreckage. Chief Prosecutor Felix Mottl said the express had been making 78 miles an hour on the curve, 30 m.p.h. more than the speed limit.

The state police said 30 people were killed and 34 injured, 26 of them seriously. They said an earlier announcement of 36 dead was due to incorrect hospital reports.

The casualties included one American killed and one injured. Both were passengers on the express, but their identities were not disclosed.

Carl Goodin New Cincy Police Chief

CINCINNATI (AP) — Carl Goodin, who posted the highest grades in a recent civil service examination, was named chief of the Cincinnati police force Tuesday.

Goodin, who is 37, replaces the late Jacob Schott. Goodin will be sworn in Thursday.

The announcement was made by Cincinnati City manager Richard Krabach, who noted Goodin holds a bachelor of science degree from Salmon P. Chase Law School and a masters degree in police science from Michigan State.

"All five of the gentlemen who took the exam received very high grades which is testimony to the high quality of the men," Krabach said.

Goodin joined the force in 1956 and rose through the ranks to Lieutenant Colonel last May.

The chief's salary ranges from $20,456 to $22,864.

"I think probably being police chief of a major city is one of the most challenging jobs you can have," said Goodin.

"Law enforcement is in a tremendous period of change. There are some really innovative concepts in law enforce - ment today, and the role of policemen is changing."

He said it would be his role to communicate the role of police in society and to listen to outside criticism.

Woman Slain After Crash

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A 47-year-old mother of 10 was shot to death Tuesday night on Cleveland's East Side during a dispute over a minor traffic accident.

Police said the woman, Mrs. Robert W. Sims was shot twice in the chest.

A daughter, Diane Sims, 15, said her mother and father and a relative, Clarence Moore, 21, who lives nearby, saw a car run into Sims' car, which was parked on the street, and went out to talk to the driver.

An argument developed between Moore and a 24-year-old passenger in the car, police were told. The car left, but the two men returned accompanied by three others and the argument resumed, police said.

The 24-year-old man drew a gun and fired several times, hitting Mrs. Sims, police said.

The man was held for questioning.

Atomic Plant Fight Continues

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP) — A biophysicist testifying before the Atomic Safety and Licensing Board has challenged statements that even minute amounts of radiation pose potential hazards to human health.

Dr. Marvin Goldman of the University of California at Davis, said Tuesday there appears to be a threshold dosage for radiation below which there is no hazard to humans.

He based his conclusions on extensive studies he said were made on animals in this and other countries. Dr. Goldman said the studies could be applied to humans.

Cardwell Urges Higher Pay For Prison Guards

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An upgrading of salaries and qualifications for prison guards was recommended Tuesday by Ohio Penitentiary Warden Harold Cardwell.

He told a subcommittee of the Citizens Task Force on Prison Reform that corrections officers should be paid as much as state highway patrolmen, and a high school diploma should be required of all applicants.

Cardwell was the last of a dozen witnesses appearing before the subcommittee studying conditions at penal institutions.

He said salary differentials between grades for guards should be 10 to 15 per cent to insure that higher ranking officers are paid more than lower officers with seniority.

He did not estimate the total cost of the salary recommendations.

Cardwell also said the guard selection process should be upgraded by throughly investigating the backgrounds of applicants and extending the probationary period from 120 days to a year.

Also testifying were supervisory personnel at the prison, most of whom asked for raises and listed job complaints.

Pay was a key issue in a recent eight-day strike by more than half of the 360 guards at the penitentiary.

Corrections Officer Harry Williams suggested that the training period for guards be extended from two weeks to six weeks.

He said dismissal of a few "sadistic" guards in recent years has reduced physical brutality of prisoners at the penitentiary.

The subcommittee expects to forward its recommendations to the full task force by Saturday. Chairman Ed Orlett of Dayton said the panel will attempt to speak with inmates before submitting a final report.

Refuge Provided For Ducks Caught In Jet Flight Path

By STEVE LIBBY
Central Press Association Correspondent

ETOBICOKE, Ont. —Just south of Toronto International Airport's busy landing strips, in the busy suburban borough of Etobicoke, Frank Dawson has for some years performed a very real service to his feathered friends.

Thousands of ducks — caught in the flight path of massive jet aircraft, small prop - jet planes, and hundreds of private aircraft landing at the airport — have gratefully accepted Dawson's hospitality.

His four-acre back yard, with its two small ponds and a creek, helps boost duck morale. It has also served measurably in the interest of aircraft safety, not to mention the lives of countless ducks which have survived the encroachment of the planes themselves.

Circling overhead, angling through trees and landing in Dawson's private sanctuary, the ducks help themselves to kernels of corn, then waddle off to rest in the shade of a neighboring tree.

The great drawing card is the small brook which overflows its banks each spring and floods an adjacent field. During those few weeks each year, thousands of quacking waterfowl — primarily mallards — call this their home.

Even during the winter months, some 400 or more ducks fly in from nearby Grenadier Pond or even from the Lake Ontario waterfront a few miles away. In the summer, there are usually about 200 ducks regularly visiting the Dawson property to take advantage of the hospitality extended by the Birdman of Etobicoke.

The generous Dawson feeds his feathered friends some 500 pounds of corn a week, an expense he does not begrudge at all.

Undisturbed by the screaming jets flying overhead, ducks are continuously circling wide and wheeling in to Dawson's private amphibian landing area, near an encroaching subdivision.

Their refuge means more to them than merely an eat-and-rest stop. Wherever one turns on the property there seems to be a duck's nest — behind a garbage pail, beneath some leaning boards, in the garage inside some empty pockaging cases, hidden deep in old weed beds, or alongside a friendly fence post.

In addition to the nesting ducks, not to mention the casual "day visitors," Frank Dawson has provided a home for five goats, a covey of doves, a brace of pheasants, a hutch of rabbits, and some guinea pigs, sea gulls, and pigeons which have wandered onto or flown into the haven.

Completely satisfied with available water, a few acres of grassy stubble, and the daily handout of food wild ducks flourish here despite their encirclement by indifferent mankind, complaining housewives and mischievous children.

The ducks have graciously accepted their human neighbors. And so have the other assorted animals and birds who owe a debt of gratitude to Frank Dawson, Birdman of Etobicoke.

Billy Graham At Mayo Clinic

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham has checked in at the Mayo Clinic for surgery to remove one of his salivary glands.

Clinic informants said Tuesday Mayo doctors had advised that the operation be performed. The reason for it was not given.

Graham was expected to spend three or four days in the hospital followed by a week or 10 days recuperation before resuming his normal schedule.

30 Persons Killed In Derailment Of German Train

KAUFBEUREN, Germany (AP) — A state prosecutor today blamed excessive speed on a curve for the derailment of the Munich - Zurich express, which caused one of the worst train wrecks in West German history.

Shortly after the three cars of the express spilled over on an adjacent track Tuesday night 48 miles southwest of Munich, a four-car local smashed into the wreckage. Chief Prosecutor Felix Mottl said the express had been making 78 miles an hour on the curve, 30 m.p.h. more than the speed limit.

The state police said 30 people were killed and 34 injured, 26 of them seriously. They said an earlier announcement of 36 dead was due to incorrect hospital reports.

The casualties included one American killed and one injured. Both were passengers on the express, but their identities were not disclosed.

Carl Goodin New Cincy Police Chief

CINCINNATI (AP) — Carl Goodin, who posted the highest grades in a recent civil service examination, was named chief of the Cincinnati police force Tuesday.

Goodin, who is 37, replaces the late Jacob Schott. Goodin will be sworn in Thursday.

The announcement was made by Cincinnati City manager Richard Krabach, who noted Goodin holds a bachelor of science degree from Salmon P. Chase Law School and a masters degree in police science from Michigan State.

"All five of the gentlemen who took the exam received very high grades which is testimony to the high quality of the men," Krabach said.

Goodin joined the force in 1956 and rose through the ranks to Lieutenant Colonel last May.

The chief's salary ranges from $20,456 to $22,864.

"I think probably being police chief of a major city is one of the most challenging jobs you can have," said Goodin.

"Law enforcement is in a tremendous period of change. There are some really innovative concepts in law enforce - ment today, and the role of policemen is changing."

He said it would be his role to communicate the role of police in society and to listen to outside criticism.

Woman Slain After Crash

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A 47-year-old mother of 10 was shot to death Tuesday night on Cleveland's East Side during a dispute over a minor traffic accident.

Police said the woman, Mrs. Robert W. Sims was shot twice in the chest.

A daughter, Diane Sims, 15, said her mother and father and a relative, Clarence Moore, 21, who lives nearby, saw a car run into Sims' car, which was parked on the street, and went out to talk to the driver.

An argument developed between Moore and a 24-year-old passenger in the car, police were told. The car left, but the two men returned accompanied by three others and the argument resumed, police said.

The 24-year-old man drew a gun and fired several times, hitting Mrs. Sims, police said.

The man was held for questioning.

Atomic Plant Fight Continues

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP) — A biophysicist testifying before the Atomic Safety and Licensing Board has challenged statements that even minute amounts of radiation pose potential hazards to human health.

Dr. Marvin Goldman of the University of California at Davis, said Tuesday there appears to be a threshold dosage for radiation below which there is no hazard to humans.

He based his conclusions on extensive studies he said were made on animals in this and other countries. Dr. Goldman said the studies could be applied to humans.

EVERYTHING'S DUCKY, and too much so, in the seventh and last game of the 1934 World Series, played on October 9 in Detroit, as Joe (Ducky) Medwick (arrow), the Cardinals' great left fielder, waits for ground crew members to clean up the fruit and vegetables the fans tossed at him at the top of the eighth inning. Medwick was ordered benched by Commissioner K. M. Landis to end the ruckus. It started when Ducky bowled over Tiger third sacker Marv Owen with a ripping slide in the seventh. The Cards, with Dizzy Dean pitching, won the game, 11 to 0, and the Series. The Gas House Gang, as it was called, came from behind to take the N.L. pennant on the last day of the season.

OSU Edges Out Purdue, 69-67

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Key second-half rebounds gave Ohio State a slim 69-67 victory over Purdue Tuesday night and sole possession of second place in the Big Ten basketball standings.

"We didn't expect them to be as tough as they were on the boards," Purdue Coach George King said after the game. "The big guy (Luke Witte) hurt us badly."

Witte, the Buckeyes' 7-foot center, tipped in a tie-breaker with 1:18 left to play to give Ohio State the lead for good.

Purdue had bolted from a 35-35 halftime tie to a 41-36 lead. But the Buckeyes then outscored the Boilermakers 13-1 in a six-minute drive.

"Our kids really hung in there," OSU Coach Fred Taylor said. "If we could have denied Purdue some baskets off the extra shots they got in the first half we would have had a nice lead then."

Purdue, undaunted by the Buckeye scoring splurge, closed the gap and finally tied it up again before Witte's tip-in.

Mark Minor hit a free throw to give Ohio State a three-point lead. Bob Ford pulled Purdue with one point with a basket and Buckeye Dave Merchant scored the last point of the game.

Ohio State sophomore Allan Hornyak took scoring honors with 27 points. Ford paced the losers with 23.

The Buckeyes, now 5-1 in the conference, took over second place in the Big Ten ahead of Illinois (4-1), which was idle. Purdue is in fourth place with a 4-2 record. Michigan (6-0) leads the league.

In another Ohio college basketball game, Otterbein continued to be a strong contender for the Ohio Conference crown, whipping Muskingum 86-72. The Cardinals (10-1) were paced by Dwight Miller with 24 points.

Elsewhere, Defiance edged Cedarville 86-81 in a Mid-Ohio Conference game; Central State thumped Cleveland State 88-59, and Western Reserve trimmed John Carroll 74-72 in a President's Athletic Conference clash.

Marquette Wins, 98-56; Denver Seeks 9th Tonight

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Raiders of the Rockies, alias the Denver Pioneers, go after their ninth straight victory in college basketball tonight. They play the Air Force.

Denver's streak doesn't compare to that of the Marquette Warriors who made it 31 straight by routing Wisconsin-Milwaukee 98-56 Tuesday night, but it is the longest winning skein for the Pioneers in 21 years.

Coach Jim Karabetsos' team could qualify as the comeback team of the season. After losing six of their first seven games, the Pioneers have bounced back by winning 11 of their last 13 games, including a 93-83 road victory over Oregon, for a 12-8 record to date.

It was another "laugher" as Coach Al Mcguire would say, as his nationally second-ranked Warriors bombed Wisconsin-Milwaukee to make their season mark 18-0.

Jim Chones, 6-foot-11 soph, led the Warriors with 21 points.

Villanova, 18th-ranked and the only other team in the Associated Press Top Twenty to see action, enjoyed a similar romp in downing Fairfield 97-60. Howard Porter led the Wildcats with 26 points to up his career total to 1,743.

Luke Witte, Ohio State's 7-foot soph, tipped in a basket to break a 65-65 tie and the Buckeyes went on to trip Purdue 69-67. Joby Wright's two free throws with 24 seconds to go gave Indiana a 71-70 squeaker over Michigan State in another Big Ten clash.

Nebraska wiped out a nine-point deficit and beat Iowa State 69-67 in overtime in the Big Eight. Rice took an 8-0 lead and went to hand Txas Christian its first league defeat 89-63 in the Southwest Conference.

In other SWC games Southern Methodist shaded Texas Tech 93-91 on Gene Phillips' six consecutive free throws in the closing minutes, Texas tripped Texas A&M 78-69 and Baylor edged Arkansas 92-91.

Dartmouth beat New Hampshire 78-74, Massachusetts humbled Boston College 85-77. Holy Cross walloped Rhode Island 110-73 and Southern Illinoi humbled Wisconsin 86-75.

Big Cage Weekend Slated As Regular Season Ends

A full slate of cage games is on tap for area schools this weekend.

On Friday, Teays Valley, co-leader of the Metropolitan League, tangles with Dublin, Logan Elm travels to Paint Valley, the cellar dweller of the Scioto Valley conference, and Westfall is at Laurelville, the second place team in the SVC.

Saturday finds Westfall idle while Logan Elm closes out its season at The Plains of Mt. Sterling. Teays Valley is on the road at Reynoldsburg Saturday in a non-league clash.

Coach Chuck Pritchard's Braves will be looking for a pair of wins this weekend to finish the season witn a better than 500 per cent record.

CURRENTLY 7-8 in all games, The Braves have lost three in the SVC and can finish no better than third.

Paint Valley is at the bottom of the Ross County League as well as the SVC. The Braves dropped the first game of the season to their Saturday night foe, The Plains, and the Blue Devils have been a constantly improving team. They were the top seeded squad in the Lancaster Sectional tournament, and are always hard to beat on their home court.

Friday's clash with Laurelville was to have been Westfall's final game of the season, but the Mustangs will still have a half of a basketball game to play on Feb. 16 when they finish a game with Piketon.

Laurelville lost twice in the Scioto Valley early in the season but has since been playing exceptionally well. Coach Jim Arnold's lads have won 11 in a row and will be seeking a win in this their final game of the season.

Last weekend the Mustangs really found themselves at Teays Valley, playing an exceptionally fine game and another performance like that one could give Jeff Bigam's Mustangs a win on the Wildcat floor.

Teays Valley has made a thing of winning its games in the final second of play, but Coach Bob Hoover will be hoping for a more comfortable margin at Dublin.

IF the Vikings can win Friday they have only Hamilton Twp. left in the Metro League and Hamilton has been the doormat for the rest of the teams in the conference. Two league wins can clinch a share of the title for the Hoovermen.

SPORTS Highlights

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—For outplaying Ohio University all-league center Craig Love in a head - to - head duel, Western Michigan's Earl Jenkins has collected the Mid-American Conference basketball player of the week award.

Jenkins, a 6-foot-7 senior from Detroit who is only 49 points away from 1,000 career points, had 28 points and 20 rebounds in the Broncos' 89-79 victory over Ohio. He held Love to 13 points and 8 rebounds.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Mike Garrett's decision to stay in professional football and forget a plan to switch to baseball averts an almost certain suit over ballpark jumping.

After insisting for months that he would foresake football for a tryout with the Los Angeles Dodgers, the 26-year-old running back announced his surprise decision Tuesday.

Reds Sign 3 More Players

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cincinnati Reds have three more contracts in their vault today which is good news for them. None of them bears the signature of Johnny Bench, which isn't such good news for them.

The National League champions added utilitymen Darrel Chaney and Willie Smith and pitcher Ed Sprague Tuesday while carrying on some public negotiating with Bench, 1970's Player of The Year.

Bench, who was the National League's Most Valuable Player with 45 home runs with 145 runs batted in last season, casually suggested that he'd be satisfied with a three-year contract worth oh, say $500,000.

"They're hard people to deal with," said Bench of the Cincinnati front office. "They don't want to pay me too much too soon because of what they'll have to pay me in the future," continued the 23-year-old catcher.

"But I've had as much responsibility as anybody on the club. My talent and ability are the same no matter if I'm 23 or 35. A lot of people are making a lot of money in sports. I want them to pay me what I'm worth."

What Bench thinks he's worth and what the Reds are about to offer may be vastly different, though.

"We'll do our talking with Johnny Bench," said Bob Howsam, the Reds' general manager, saying he felt contract negotiations were a matter between the club and player. He added that he was "not too interested" in three year contracts.

While the Reds and Bench were warming up for their contract talks, other clubs and players were reaching agreement Tuesday.

Houston signed six men including pitchers Larry Dierker, Wade Blasingame and Fred Gladding. St. Louis aded five signatures including outfielder Matty Alou and pitcher George Brunet, acquired recently from Pittsburgh.

Third baseman Ron Santo and pitcher Ron Tompkins signed with the Chicago Cubs and Montreal satisfied second baseman Ron Hunt and pitcher Claude Raymond. Minnesota signed five players including pitcher Tom Hall.

One player who won't be signing a baseball contract is pro football's running back Mike Garrett of the San Diego Chargers.

Garrett had indicated that he would try baseball this season with the Los Angeles Dodgers. But "I decided after much deliberation that my best long-range interests were to continue to play football."

Elsewhere in baseball, Washington traded outfielder Rick Reichardt to the Chicago White Sox for pitcher Jerry Janeski. Reichardt batted .251 with 47 RBIs for the California Angeles and the Senators last year. Janeski was 10-17 for the Sox.

Wooster Has Flashy Record, But Nowhere To Display It

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Wooster has a flashy 19-1 record among Ohio's 45 basketball-playing colleges, but no apparent place to display it in post-season tournaments.

The Scots are ineligible for the Ohio Conference Tournament. They are on one-year probation in basketball because they conducted a basketball camp last summer without the league's permission.

The NCAA passed a bylaw last month making teams ineligible for its tournaments that are ineligible in their own leagues. So it looks as if a meeting here Sunday to decide Wooster's fate will keep the Scots from any tournament play this season.

That doesn't mean Wooster could not win the regular season league title. The Scots, at Marietta tonight, are 8-0 on the OC to leading Capital's 9-0.

"It's a newspaper champion only," A. N. Smith, conference commissioner, said. "our official champion comes from the tournament."

The Scots would have been a red - hot candidate for the NCAA College Division Tournament.

Ohio usually gets two, sometimes three spots in the event. The competition down the stretch will be rugged with five schools — Ashland, Capital, Otterbein, Akron and Youngstown State — still in contention.

Ashland and Youngstown played in the Mid-East Regional and Capital in the Great Lakes Regional last spring.

The six - man NCAA selection committee, with Bob Strimer of Ohio Wesleyan and Bob Bruce of Wooster its Ohio delegates, will select the NCAA Mid-East site next Wednesday.

A decision on the tournament teams will not be made until another conference telephone call among the committee members March 3.

Besides the Wooster case, a special Ohio Conference committee Sunday will decide if the league should permit members to sponsor summer basketball camps for pre-college players in the future.

"There was no question about Wooster's camp. It was fine," Smith said.

"They just did not get league authorization for it and it's against our current conference regulations," the commissioner said.

Wooster was placed on probation in October for the 1970-71 basketball season only.

Johnny Green Out With Groin Injury

CINCINNATI (AP) — Johnny Green, the oldest Cincinnati Royal at 37, will miss two games this week because of a muscular groin injury.

The high scoring forward will miss Thursday's game at Seattle and the game Friday at San Francisco but will rejoin the National Basketball Association club at San Diego Saturday.

Green was injured Sunday during the game at Atlanta.

Seek Cage Rule Changes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio high school basketball coaches plan to stand and be counted because they can't stand during games.

The coaches want to stand to call a timeout, to check the scorer and timers for fouls and time and to talk to players on the bench during a contest as long as their back is to the action.

These actions all are prohibited and subject to technical fouls under current Ohio High School Athletic Association rules which follow those used by the National Alliance.

The coaches will draw up their petition during State Basketball Tournament week March 25 -27 and present it to the OHSAA. "We cannot comment until we hear from the coaches," one OHSAA official said.

Under a four-point experiment this season, the OHSAA allows coaches to stand during a charged timeout, when an official beckons them during a player injury, at intermission and to challenge a correctable error by an official.

Stoutsville PTO Independent Cage Tournament Set

There will be an independent basketball tournament at Stoutsville School March 8-17.

Sponsored by the Stoutsville Parent Teacher Organization there will be trophies awarded to the first four places.

Circleville Oil is the defending champion of the tournament

John Roth, Allentown, Pa., junior who plays a defensive end, will captain Army's 1971 football team.

EVERYTHING'S DUCKY, and too much so, in the seventh and last game of the 1934 World Series, played on October 9 in Detroit, as Joe (Ducky) Medwick (arrow), the Cardinals' great left fielder, waits for ground crew members to clean up the fruit and vegetables the fans tossed at him at the top of the eighth inning. Medwick was ordered benched by Commissioner K. M. Landis to end the ruckus. It started when Ducky bowled over Tiger third sacker Marv Owen with a ripping slide in the seventh. The Cards, with Dizzy Dean pitching, won the game, 11 to 0, and the Series. The Gas House Gang, as it was called, came from behind to take the N.L. pennant on the last day of the season.

Louisiana State-New Orleans continued to pull away from the rest of the nation's small colege basketball powers today.

The Privateers, unbeaten in 18 starts, widened their grip on first place in this week's Associated Press poll, picking up 12 of 20 first place votes cast by sports writers and broadcasters across the country and totaling 365 points.

After leading by five and 22 points their first two weeks atop the poll, the Privateers increased their lead over runner up Southwestern Louisiana to 57 points. The Ragin' Cajuns received three first-place votes and 308 points.

OSU Edges Out Purdue, 69-67

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Key second-half rebounds gave Ohio State a slim 69-67 victory over Purdue Tuesday night and sole possession of second place in the Big Ten basketball standings.

"We didn't expect them to be as tough as they were on the boards," Purdue Coach George King said after the game. "The big guy (Luke Witte) hurt us badly."

Witte, the Buckeyes' 7-foot center, tipped in a tie-breaker with 1:18 left to play to give Ohio State the lead for good.

Purdue had bolted from a 35-35 halftime tie to a 41-36 lead. But the Buckeyes then outscored the Boilermakers 13-1 in a six-minute drive.

"Our kids really hung in there," OSU Coach Fred Taylor said. "If we could have denied Purdue some baskets off the extra shots they got in the first half we would have had a nice lead then."

Purdue, undaunted by the Buckeye scoring splurge, closed the gap and finally tied it up again before Witte's tip-in.

Mark Minor hit a free throw to give Ohio State a three-point lead. Bob Ford pulled Purdue with one point with a basket and Buckeye Dave Merchant scored the last point of the game.

Ohio State sophomore Allan Hornyak took scoring honors with 27 points. Ford paced the losers with 23.

The Buckeyes, now 5-1 in the conference, took over second place in the Big Ten ahead of Illinois (4-1), which was idle. Purdue is in fourth place with a 4-2 record. Michigan (6-0) leads the league.

In another Ohio college basketball game, Otterbein continued to be a strong contender for the Ohio Conference crown, whipping Muskingum 86-72. The Cardinals (10-1) were paced by Dwight Miller with 24 points.

Elsewhere, Defiance edged Cedarville 86-81 in a Mid-Ohio Conference game; Central State thumped Cleveland State 88-59, and Western Reserve trimmed John Carroll 74-72 in a President's Athletic Conference clash.

Marquette Wins, 98-56; Denver Seeks 9th Tonight

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer

The Raiders of the Rockies, alias the Denver Pioneers, go after their ninth straight victory in college basketball tonight. They play the Air Force.

Denver's streak doesn't compare to that of the Marquette Warriors who made it 31 straight by routing Wisconsin-Milwaukee 98-56 Tuesday night, but it is the longest winning skein for the Pioneers in 21 years.

Coach Jim Karabetsos' team could qualify as the comeback team of the season. After losing six of their first seven games, the Pioneers have bounced back by winning 11 of their last 13 games, including a 93-83 road victory over Oregon, for a 12-8 record to date.

It was another "laugher" as Coach Al Mcguire would say, as his nationally second-ranked Warriors bombed Wisconsin-Milwaukee to make their season mark 18-0.

Jim Chones, 6-foot-11 soph, led the Warriors with 21 points.

Villanova, 18th-ranked and the only other team in the Associated Press Top Twenty to see action, enjoyed a similar romp in downing Fairfield 97-60. Howard Porter led the Wildcats with 26 points to up his career total to 1,743.

Luke Witte, Ohio State's 7-foot soph, tipped in a basket to break a 65-65 tie and the Buckeyes went on to trip Purdue 69-67. Joby Wright's two free throws with 24 seconds to go gave Indiana a 71-70 squeaker over Michigan State in another Big Ten clash.

Nebraska wiped out a nine-point deficit and beat Iowa State 69-67 in overtime in the Big Eight. Rice took an 8-0 lead and went to hand Txas Christian its first league defeat 89-63 in the Southwest Conference.

In other SWC games Southern Methodist shaded Texas Tech 93-91 on Gene Phillips' six consecutive free throws in the closing minutes, Texas tripped Texas A&M 78-69 and Baylor edged Arkansas 92-91.

Dartmouth beat New Hampshire 78-74, Massachusetts humbled Boston College 85-77. Holy Cross walloped Rhode Island 110-73 and Southern Illinoi humbled Wisconsin 86-75.

Reds Sign 3 More Players

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cincinnati Reds have three more contracts in their vault today which is good news for them. None of them bears the signature of Johnny Bench, which isn't such good news for them.

The National League champions added utilitymen Darrel Chaney and Willie Smith and pitcher Ed Sprague Tuesday while carrying on some public negotiating with Bench, 1970's Player of The Year.

Bench, who was the National League's Most Valuable Player with 45 home runs with 145 runs batted in last season, casually suggested that he'd be satisfied with a three-year contract worth oh, say $500,000.

"They're hard people to deal with," said Bench of the Cincinnati front office. "They don't want to pay me too much too soon because of what they'll have to pay me in the future," continued the 23-year-old catcher.

"But I've had as much responsibility as anybody on the club. My talent and ability are the same no matter if I'm 23 or 35. A lot of people are making a lot of money in sports. I want them to pay me what I'm worth."

What Bench thinks he's worth and what the Reds are about to offer may be vastly different, though.

"We'll do our talking with Johnny Bench," said Bob Howsam, the Reds' general manager, saying he felt contract negotiations were a matter between the club and player. He added that he was "not too interested" in three year contracts.

While the Reds and Bench were warming up for their contract talks, other clubs and players were reaching agreement Tuesday.

Houston signed six men including pitchers Larry Dierker, Wade Blasingame and Fred Gladding. St. Louis aded five signatures including outfielder Matty Alou and pitcher George Brunet, acquired recently from Pittsburgh.

Third baseman Ron Santo and pitcher Ron Tompkins signed with the Chicago Cubs and Montreal satisfied second baseman Ron Hunt and pitcher Claude Raymond. Minnesota signed five players including pitcher Tom Hall.

One player who won't be signing a baseball contract is pro football's running back Mike Garrett of the San Diego Chargers.

Garrett had indicated that he would try baseball this season with the Los Angeles Dodgers. But "I decided after much deliberation that my best long-range interests were to continue to play football."

Elsewhere in baseball, Washington traded outfielder Rick Reichardt to the Chicago White Sox for pitcher Jerry Janeski. Reichardt batted .251 with 47 RBIs for the California Angeles and the Senators last year. Janeski was 10-17 for the Sox.

Wooster Has Flashy Record, But Nowhere To Display It

By GEORGE STRODE

Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Wooster has a flashy 19-1 record among Ohio's 45 basketball-playing colleges, but no apparent place to display it in post-season tournaments.

The Scots are ineligible for the Ohio Conference Tournament. They are on one-year probation in basketball because they conducted a basketball camp last summer without the league's permission.

The NCAA passed a bylaw last month making teams ineligible for its tournaments that are ineligible in their own leagues. So it looks as if a meeting here Sunday to decide Wooster's fate will keep the Scots from any tournament play this season.

That doesn't mean Wooster could not win the regular season league title. The Scots, at Marietta tonight, are 8-0 on the OC to leading Capital's 9-0.

"It's a newspaper champion only," A. N. Smith, conference commissioner, said. "cur official champion comes from the tournament."

The Scots would have been a red - hot candidate for the NCAA College Division Tournament.

Ohio usually gets two, sometimes three spots in the event. The competition down the stretch will be rugged with five schools — Ashland, Capital, Otterbein, Akron and Youngstown State — still in contention.

Ashland and Youngstown played in the Mid-East Regional and Capital in the Great Lakes Regional last spring.

The six - man NCAA selection committee, with Bob Strimer of Ohio Wesleyan and Bob Bruce of Wooster its Ohio delegates, will select the NCAA Mid-East site next Wednesday.

A decision on the tournament teams will not be made until another conference telephone call among the committee members March 3.

Besides the Wooster case, a special Ohio Conference committee Sunday will decide if the league should permit members to sponsor summer basketball camps for pre-college players in the future.

"There was no question about Wooster's camp. It was fine," Smith said.

"They just did not get league authorization for it and it's against our current conference regulations," the commissioner said.

Wooster was placed on probation in October for the 1970-71 basketball season only.

Johnny Green Out With Groin Injury

CINCINNATI (AP) — Johnny Green, the oldest Cincinnati Royal at 37, will miss two games this week because of a muscular groin injury.

The high scoring forward will miss Thursday's game at Seattle and the game Friday at San Francisco but will rejoin the National Basketball Association club at San Diego Saturday.

Green was injured Sunday during the game at Atlanta.

Seek Cage Rule Changes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio high school basketball coaches plan to stand and be counted because they can't stand during games.

The coaches want to stand to call a timeout, to check the scorer and timers for fouls and time and to talk to players on the bench during a contest as long as their back is to the action.

These actions all are prohibited and subject to technical fouls under current Ohio High School Athletic Association rules which follow those used by the National Alliance.

The coaches will draw up their petition during State Basketball Tournament week March 25 -27 and present it to the OHSAA, "We cannot comment until we hear from the coaches," one OHSAA official said.

Under a four-point experiment this season, the OHSAA allows coaches to stand during a charged timeout, when an official beckons them during a player injury, at intermission and to challenge a correctable error by an official.

Stoutsville PTO Independent Cage Tournament Set

There will be an independent basketball tournament at Stoutsville School March 8-17.

Sponsored by the Stoutsville Parent Teacher Organization there will be trophies awarded to the first four places.

More information can be obtained by calling tournament directors Neil Kern (474- 6761) o Don Morrison (474-6368) after 5 p.m.

Circleville Oil is the defending champion of the tournament.

John Roth, Allentown, Pa., junior who plays a defensive end, will captain Army's 1971 football team.

PITCHIN' IN FOR FITNESS—Jim Bunning, the 39-year-old Philadelphia Phils' pitcher, is now a member of the White House Advisory Council on Physical Fitness in sports. He is seen (left) with Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and President Nixon. Bunning has two no-hitters.

Highlights in World of Sports

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Gail Goodrich of the Los Angeles Lakers was too hot to handle for Cleveland's Cavaliers Tuesday night.

Goodrich scored 42 points for a season high, hitting for 27 in the first half when the Lakers took a 64-52 lead.

"The only way we could have stopped Goodrich the first half was cut his arm off," said Cavalier coach Bill Fitch after Los Angeles defeated the Cavaliers 116-111.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A federal antitrust grand jury investigating the National Football League resumes sessions in Cleveland today, weather permitting.

John Mackey, president of the Professional Football Players Association and a tight end for the Baltimore Colts, was expected to testify today. Mackey was to have appeared Tuesday, but Tuesday sessions of the jury were canceled in the wake of Monday's snowstorm, which created chaotic conditions on Cleveland thoroughfares.

The grand jury, which is probing possible illegal restraints of trade, resumed its investigation Monday after a two-week recess.

Ken Hodge was a helpful guy for the Boston Bruins to have around Tuesday night.

The rangy right winger assisted on all six Bruin goals as Boston battered New York 6-3 to open a nine-point bulge over the Rangers in the National Hockey League's East Division race.

Wayne Cashman and Bobby Orr scored two goals apiece for Boston, which stretched its unbeaten streak to 10 games.

Elsewhere in the NHL Tuesday night, Montreal whipped Pittsburgh 4-1, St. Louis rallied for a 3-3 tie against Toronto and Vancouver whipped Buffalo 6-3.

Ol' Satch In Baseball Hall Of Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — Satchel Paige took the long, hard way into baseball's Hall of Fame, but with his rubber arm and unhurried gait, he finally made it.

The legendary pitcher, who was somewhere in his 40s when he made his major league debut and somewhere in his 50s when he finally retired, walked Tuesday through a door marked "special category" and took his place among the other greats in baseball history.

"Technically, he's not in the Hall of Fame," acknowledged Commissioner Bowie Kuhn because old Satch never played the required 10 years in the majors, "but realistically the Hall of Fame is a state of mind—and I think the fans feel that way."

Paige was the first Negro elected in a special category honoring Negro League stars who missed their chance of major league glory because they came along before the color barrier was broken.

Paige took the former recognition graciously, without a trace of bitterness at being kept out of the majors for 22 years although he was considered one of the finest pitchers in history.

Shaw Seeks Another Win

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Tom Shaw, a colorful, inconsistent young man of undetermined age — who may be the next big attraction on the pro golf tour — challenged Arnold Palmer for the gallery today in the first round of the $140,000 Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic.

He can't explain his game — which goes from very, very good to horrid—and doesn't attempt to explain his age.

He just skims the latter as 28. That's what the PGA record book shows too. The current one. The 1967 player catalogue lists his birthday as Dec. 13, 1938. Which comes out to 32.

He is a 1962 University of Oregon product in his eighth year on the pro tour. And he's made the biggest noise of any player on the swing this season, regardless of age.

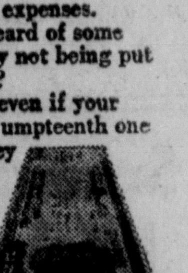
Shaw has won two of the five titles up for grabs this season — including last week's $40,000 first prize in the Hawaiian Open — and, naturally, is the leading money winner with almost $70,000. But between the triumph in the Bing Crosby and the title in Hawaii, Shaw twice missed the cut for the final two rounds.

That's not unusual, however. He missed the cut 13 times last season when he lost his exempt player status. And in 1969, his best previous year, he won two tournaments — and missed the cut more than a dozen times in between.

"I can't explain why I'm playing so well now and played so badly last year," the sun-bleached blond said. "Maybe it is just a process of growing up.

"But I like it. I like the way I'm playing. This game is a lot more fun when you hit it where you aim it and don't have to go and find it.

"I'm not really doing anything different. Things just seem to be happening right."



Even the seventh, or eighth, or ninth Savings Bond will be as welcome as the first. Which is one reason why they make a pretty nice gift. Especially for a wedding. And in a few years, a young couple will open up that bottom drawer to cash in their wedding Bonds. Matured and filled with interest. It'll be like found money. What's more, in a few years there might be a couple of kids. A few more expenses. Who ever heard of some found money not being put to good use? So you see, even if your Bond is the umpteenth one they get, they can use it. A lot better than three chafing dishes.

If they're lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace 'em.

Shaw Seeks Another Win

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Tom Shaw, a colorful, inconsistent young man of undetermined age — who may be the next big attraction on the pro golf tour — challenged Arnold Palmer for the gallery today in the first round of the $140,000 Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic.

He can't explain his game — which goes from very, very good to horrid—and doesn't attempt to explain his age.

He just skims the latter as 28. That's what the PGA record book shows too. The current one. The 1967 player catalogue lists his birthday as Dec. 13, 1938. Which comes out to 32.

He is a 1962 University of Oregon product in his eighth year on the pro tour. And he's made the biggest noise of any player on the swing this season, regardless of age.

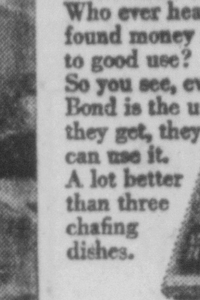
Shaw has won two of the five titles up for grabs this season — including last week's $40,000 first prize in the Hawaiian Open — and, naturally, is the leading money winner with almost $70,000. But between the triumph in the Bing Crosby and the title in Hawaii, Shaw twice missed the cut for the final two rounds.

That's not unusual, however. He missed the cut 13 times last season when he lost his exempt player status. And in 1969, his best previous year, he won two tournaments — and missed the cut more than a dozen times in between.

"I can't explain why I'm playing so well now and played so badly last year," the sun-bleached blond said. "Maybe it is just a process of growing up.

"But I like it. I like the way I'm playing. This game is a lot more fun when you hit it where you aim it and don't have to go and find it.

"I'm not really doing anything different. Things just seem to be happening right."



Even the seventh, or eighth, or ninth Savings Bond will be as welcome as the first. Which is one reason why they make a pretty nice gift. Especially for a wedding. And in a few years, a young couple will open up that bottom drawer to cash in their wedding Bonds. Matured and filled with interest. It'll be like found money. What's more, in a few years there might be a couple of kids. A few more expenses. Who ever heard of some found money not being put to good use? So you see, even if your Bond is the umpteenth one they get, they can use it. A lot better than three chafing dishes.

If they're lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace 'em.

Montgomery Ward, Spiegel Named In FTC Complaint

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission today accused two of the nation's largest mail order firms, Montgomery Ward & Co. Inc., and Spiegel, Inc., of deceiving customers on credit terms.

In a proposed complaint, the FTC said the two Chicago-based firms had failed to make disclosures required by the federal Truth-in-Lending Act and had misled customers in advertisements of credit conditions.

Montgomery Ward, which operates stores and a mail order business, was sixth among retailing companies in the nation with 1969 sales of $2.7 billion. It is a wholly owned subsidiary of Marcor, Inc., of Chicago, also named in the proposed complaint.

Spiegel, which operates only on a mail order basis, had sales of $320 million in 1968.

The FTC's proposed complaint contends Montgomery Ward catalogues failed to disclose how the balance is computed for figuring finance charges, failed to tell customers who take out special mortgages to finance home improvements that they have three days to cancel the transaction, and failed to disclose credit terms on required minimum payments for catalogue items.

The complaint alleges also Montgomery Ward's advertised claim that no monthly payments would be required on an item until a certain date misled customers into believing finance charges would not be imposed until the first installment came due. Actually, the FTC said, finance charges are imposed monthly after the first 30 days.

The complaint against Spiegel charges the firm sold credit life insurance to new customers without obtaining the required permission of the customer, failed to disclose on statements the date by which payment must be made to avoid finance charges and misled credit customers as to the method of computing finance charges.

Although Spiegel advertises offers of free trials of merchandise and of 25 per cent discounts to the general public, persons ordering merchandise under such offers must satisfy the firm's credit requirement before merchandise is sent to them, the complaint said.

Under FTC procedures, both firms may negotiate a voluntary settlement. Should the firms contest the allegations, a hearing examiner would weigh the evidence and recommend a formal decision by the commission.

Commission orders can be contested in federal appeals courts.

Tax Sharing Still Mystery, Gilligan Tells News Meeting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan says a good part of the proposed federal revenue-sharing program is "still shrouded in mystery" following Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's visit here.

The Democratic governor remained skeptical after discussing the $16 billion package both privately and publicly with the Republican vice president.

What bothers him most, Gilligan told newsmen, is an $11 billion special revenue section of the program, about which he said Agnew was not clear.

"The vice president either didn't know or was not able to explain it," Gilligan said.

The governor contends this money would be taken from such programs as the Appalachian Regional Commission and urban renewal.

While Agnew promised that Ohio would not lose any federal funds, Gilligan voiced concern that funds now earmarked for specific work areas like urban renewal and Appalachia could be channeled to other projects by state legislatures.

The vice president, appearing earlier in the day before a panel of newspaper, radio and television executives, called the Nixon administration program "a beginning, a very substantial beginning."

He said the money-sharing package was an effort to return government to the people, but conceded it would favor states making "a higher tax effort." Ohio will have to make a substantial effort on its own."

Agnew said he had reassured Gilligan on questions the governor has raised about the program.

"I don't know what he means by reassured," Gilligan said. "I'm for getting all the help we can and I'll take it. But I feel we are going to have to do better."

Gilligan has favored a federal income tax credit program but Agnew said this would take three to four years and "we can't wait three to four years."

Harper Is Elected To Board Of P&G

CINCINNATI (AP) — John D. Harper, chairman of the board of Aluminum Company of America, was elected Tuesday to the board of directors of Procter & Gamble Co.

VA Expenditures In Pickaway County Listed

The Veterans Administration today announced that expenditures for Ohio for fiscal 1970 totaled $413,239.725, of which $1,191,070 was for Pickaway County.

Michael L. Halloran, director of the Cleveland VA office, said the bulk of the money was $241,244,063 in disability compensation and pension payments for Ohio veterans — $687,546 for Pickaway County veterans.

Other VA expenditures in Pickaway County for fiscal 1970, Halloran said, were for GI Bill and other VA educational programs, $102,654; insurance and indemnities, $125,729; direct loans, $275,150.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A fire broke out aboard the freighter Homer D. Williams docked at Bay View Park in Toledo Tuesday evening causing extensive damage but no injuries.

District Fire chief Robert Rabbit declined to give an estimate of damage but said the blaze was apparently set by sparks from a welder's torch. The fire was brought under control in about two hours.

Happy Apollo . . .

of the birth pangs of the moon, the earth and solar system. All were believed created at the same time in the convulsive coming together of space dust and rocks in a mammoth gas cloud.

Rocks collected in 1969 by the Apollo 11 and 12 crews came from relatively flat and young mare areas and range in age from 3.2 billion to 3.7 billion years. They have revealed some things that happened after the moon was a billion or so years old.

Following the successful splashdown, Shepard, Mitchell and Roosa received the praise of President Nixon and space agency officials.

"We're just so proud and happy to have you all back," the President told them by radiophone from Washington. He invited them and their wives to dinner at the White House and urged them to bring their families for a weekend at the Camp David presidential retreat in the Maryland mountains.

Nixon told 47-year-old Shepard, who made America's first manned space flight a decade ago, "You give all of us older fellows hope."

Shepard became the first lunar golfer when he hit three golf balls on the moon with a makeshift club. Nixon jokingly said he had talked with professional golfer Arnold Palmer about placing Shepard on the tour.

At a news conference in Houston, Dr. George Low, acting administrator of NASA, said the success was especially gratifying because it wiped out the scars of the near-disaster of Apollo 13 last April when an oxygen tank explosion forced an abort near the moon.

Apollo 14 carried out Apollo 13's mission, which was to gather pristine rocks at Fra Mauro.

"On the first Mercury flight in 1961, Alan Shepard tested man's reaction to the space environment," Low said. "On Apollo 14, just 10 years later, Alan Shepard and his crew demonstrated that man belongs in space, that man can achieve objectives well beyond the capabilities of any machines that has yet been devised.

Low praised the work of Mission Control and the astronauts in overcoming several problems that threatened to cancel the landing and added "I can only give this mission an absolutely perfect score."

The wives of the astronauts were excited and happy at the safe return.

"Beautiful!" exclaimed Louise Mitchell. "We saw it all on television. It was just like being there."

Joan Roosa said she couldn't care less if her husband is a hero or a historic figure. "Right now, I just think about him being my husband and being safely back here on earth.

"It's hard to put into words," said Louise Shepard.V

Champagne corks popped all around.

The families will see the spacemen only behind a glass isolation panel until the quarantine ends Feb. 26.

Television gave the world a ringside seat as Apollo 14's Kitty Hawk command ship came back to earth after the nine-day, 1.15-million-mile journey.

Millions watched as the six-ton craft came down from the skies, dangling under three huge orange and white parachutes.

It hit the sea at 4:05 p.m. and helicopters were overhead immediately, dropping swimmers who secured the bobbing spacecraft against sinking.

Ireland Quiet;

Irish Republic to the south, its members operate more or less openly in Catholic districts in the North, waging their war to expel the British and unite Protestant Northern Ireland with the Catholic South.

Political and religious leaders throughout the province condemned guerrillas whose land mine killed five civilians on a mountain road Tuesday.

Jack Lynch, prime minister of the republic, also assailed "the evil perpetrators of this malicious and cowardly deed."

In a statement from his Dublin office, Lynch said Ireland would be reunited only by peaceful means and condemned "any group who advocate or use force, whether it be for the reunification of our country or to maintain the status quo."

Police in Belfast said they suspect saboteurs were responsible for a big fire in a timber yard Tuesday. The flames shot more than 100 feet into the air, threatening the harbor district, and more than 70 firemen were called out.

City Board Adopts New Diploma, Course Revision

Graduates of Circleville High School in 1972 will receive a different diploma from that which has been given by the school for the past eight or nine years.

This was the word Tuesday night as Circleville City Board of Education voted to adopt new measures in curriculum study and graduation policies recommended by the teaching staff and administration.

Teachers in the local school district feel that there is too much pressure on students today to follow the classical or college preparatory course of study for prestige rather than to take courses which they could enjoy and profit by. Beginning, 1972, a new style of diploma, completely eliminating notation of the students' major study in high school, will be presented to graduating seniors.

A new policy will be followed in baccalaureate and commencement programs also eliminating this procedure of separation. Recognition of honor graduates would continue by appropriate designation on programs and with awarding of honor cords as in the past. There will simply be no reference to college preparatory, general, industrial, home economic, or business areas of study on graduation certificates.

IN discussion on the issue, Superintendent Fritz Jacobs noted that the diploma was not used by colleges or most employment without a check being made at the schools on the student's performance in high school using his permanent record on file there. An employer or school uses this method to see if a student has completed the requirements he seeks.

Circleville teachers and administration and the board hope to erase the apparent social stigma forcing students into an area to which they are not suited.

Along with this, the board adopted a new form for curriculum explanation. The new totally revised and consolidated copy eliminates complicated reference to college bound requirements by setting up graduation requirements of two majors and two minors. A major consists of three or more units of credit in one subject area such as English, social studies, math or science. A minor is two units of credit of one subject area.

Recommended curriculum guides will still be available so each student may see at a glance the maximum offerings available in the field of his choice. All courses offered at his grade level will be listed separately so he may conveniently deviate from the standard form.

At present, Circleville offers eight different major areas of study including math-science major and liberal arts in the college preparatory area; home economics; industrial; secretarial, clerk-typist, vocational in business studies and general education.

Also new this year is a policy allowing students to add or drop full year subjects up to three days after distribution of first six week's grade cards. Previously the date set for transfer was Nov. 2. In this way, educators hope to create as little catch up work as possible when a student enters a new course.

MEETINGS have been scheduled for students prior to enrollment for the 1971-72 school year to explain the new forms.

The board has tentatively adopted a school calendar for the next school term. Opening and closing dates will be August 31, 1971 and June 1, 1972 with holidays scheduled for Labor Day, Pumpkin Show, Thanksgiving, Christmas, Washington-Lincoln Birthdays (one day), Easter and Memorial Day.

In other business, the board approved work to be done on a heating system in a supply room in the new Atwater addition. The room is being used as a part-time reading classroom and speech therapy room. A bid by Circleville Metal Works was accepted for $170 to lower existing heating units and install an additional four feet to the heater.

Approval was given to purchase new elementary science text for grades 4, 5 and 6 this year and complete the series with grades 2 and 3 next year.

A date of Mar. 5 was set for opening bids for window replacement for the junior high school building. Work on three sides of the building were completed last year.

Mrs. Sandra Henn and Mrs. Louise Carle were added to the substitute teachers list for elementary grades and high school French and English.

Present at last night's board session were President R. L. Brehmer Jr, Ruth Crist, Tom Elsea, Dale DeLong, Forrest Brown, Jacobs, Elementary Supervisor Donald Metzler and clerk Mary Ellen Rader.

THEIR IRISH IS UP—Two women in Belfast, Northern Ireland, are restrained during one of the religious outbreaks. British troops are having a rum go of it.

Mrs. Nellie Conkel, 434 E. Union St., reported to Circleville Police at 5:15 p.m. Tuesday that a magnetic advertising sign was taken from her husband's truck either Monday or Tuesday.

Montgomery Ward, Spiegel Named In FTC Complaint

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission today accused two of the nation's largest mail order firms, Montgomery Ward & Co. Inc., and Spiegel, Inc., of deceiving customers on credit terms.

In a proposed complaint, the FTC said the two Chicago-based firms had failed to make disclosures required by the federal Truth-in-Lending Act and had misled customers in advertisements of credit conditions.

Montgomery Ward, which operates stores and a mail order business, was sixth among retailing companies in the nation with 1969 sales of $2.7 billion. It is a wholly owned subsidiary of Marcor, Inc., of Chicago, also named in the proposed complaint.

Spiegel, which operates only on a mail order basis, had sales of $320 million in 1968.

The FTC's proposed complaint contends Montgomery Ward catalogues failed to disclose how the balance is computed for figuring finance charges, failed to tell customers who take out special mortgages to finance home improvements that they have three days to cancel the transaction, and failed to disclose credit terms on required minimum payments for catalogue items.

The complaint alleges also Montgomery Ward's advertised claim that no monthly payments would be required on an item until a certain date misled customers into believing finance charges would not be imposed until the first installment came due. Actually, the FTC said, finance charges are imposed monthly after the first 30 days.

The complaint against Spiegel charges the firm sold credit life insurance to new customers without obtaining the required permission of the customer, failed to disclose on statements the date by which payment must be made to avoid finance charges and misled credit customers as to the method of computing finance charges.

Although Spiegel advertises offers of free trials of merchandise and of 25 per cent discounts to the general public, persons ordering merchandise under such offers must satisfy the firm's credit requirement before merchandise is sent to them, the complaint said.

Under FTC procedures, both firms may negotiate a voluntary settlement. Should the firms contest the allegations, a hearing examiner would weigh the evidence and recommend a formal decision by the commission.

Commission orders can be contested in federal appeals courts.

Tax Sharing Still Mystery, Gilligan Tells News Meeting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan says a good part of the proposed federal revenue-sharing program is "still shrouded in mystery" following Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's visit here.

The Democratic governor remained skeptical after discussing the $16 billion package both privately and publicly with the Republican vice president.

What bothers him most, Gilligan told newsmen, is an $11 billion special revenue section of the program, about which he said Agnew was not clear.

"The vice president either didn't know or was not able to explain it," Gilligan said.

The governor contends this money would be taken from such programs as the Appalachian Regional Commission and urban renewal.

While Agnew promised that Ohio would not lose any federal funds, Gilligan voiced concern that funds now earmarked for specific work areas like urban renewal and Appalachia could be channeled to other projects by state legislatures.

The vice president, appearing earlier in the day before a panel of newspaper, radio and television executives, called the Nixon administration program "a beginning, a very substantial beginning."

He said the money-sharing package was an effort to return government to the people, but conceded it would favor states making "a higher tax effort." Ohio will have to make a substantial effort on its own."

Agnew said he had reassured Gilligan on questions the governor has raised about the program.

"I don't know what he means by reassured," Gilligan said. "I'm for getting all the help we can and I'll take it. But I feel we are going to have to do better."

Gilligan has favored a federal income tax credit program but Agnew said this would take three to four years and "we can't wait three to four years."

VA Expenditures In Pickaway County Listed

The Veterans Administration today announced that expenditures for Ohio for fiscal 1970 totaled $413,239.725, of which $1,191,070 was for Pickaway County.

Other VA expenditures in Pickaway County for fiscal 1970, Halloran said, were for GI Bill and other VA educational programs, $102,654; insurance and indemnities, $125,720; direct loans, $275,150.

Happy Apollo . . .

of the birth pangs of the moon, the earth and solar system. All were believed created at the same time in the convulsive coming together of space dust and rocks in a mammoth gas cloud.

Rocks collected in 1969 by the Apollo 11 and 12 crews came from relatively flat and young mare areas and range in age from 3.2 billion to 3.7 billion years. They have revealed some things that happened after the moon was a billion or so years old.

Following the successful splashdown, Shepard, Mitchell and Roosa received the praise of President Nixon and space agency officials.

"We're just so proud and happy to have you all back," the President told them by radiophone from Washington. He invited them and their wives to dinner at the White House and urged them to bring their families for a weekend at the Camp David presidential retreat in the Maryland mountains.

Nixon told 47-year-old Shepard, who made America's first manned space flight a decade ago, "You give all of us older fellows hope."

Shepard became the first lunar golfer when he hit three golf balls on the moon with a makeshift club. Nixon jokingly said he had talked with professional golfer Arnold Palmer about placing Shepard on the tour.

At a news conference in Houston, Dr. George Low, acting administrator of NASA, said the success was especially gratifying because it wiped out the scars of the near-disaster of Apollo 13 last April when an oxygen tank explosion forced an abort near the moon.

Apollo 14 carried out Apollo 13's mission, which was to gather pristine rocks at Fra Mauro.

"On the first Mercury flight in 1961, Alan Shepard tested man's reaction to the space environment," Low said. "On Apollo 14, just 10 years later, Alan Shepard and his crew demonstrated that man belongs in space, that man can achieve objectives well beyond the capabilities of any machines that has yet been devised.

Low praised the work of Mission Control and the astronauts in overcoming several problems that threatened to cancel the landing and added "I can only give this mission an absolutely perfect score."

The wives of the astronauts were excited and happy at the safe return.

"Beautiful!" exclaimed Louise Mitchell. "We saw it all on television. It was just like being there."

Joan Roosa said she couldn't care less if her husband is a hero or a historic figure. "Right now, I just think about him being my husband and being safely back here on earth.

"It's hard to put into words," said Louise Shepard.V

Champagne corks popped all around.

The families will see the spacemen only behind a glass isolation panel until the quarantine ends Feb. 26.

Television gave the world a ringside seat as Apollo 14's Kitty Hawk command ship came back to earth after the nine-day, 1.15-million-mile journey.

Millions watched as the six-ton craft came down from the skies, dangling under three huge orange and white parachutes.

It hit the sea at 4:05 p.m. and helicopters were overhead immediately, dropping swimmers who secured the bobbing spacecraft against sinking.

Irish Republic to the south, its members operate more or less openly in Catholic districts in the North, waging their war to expel the British and unite Protestant Northern Ireland with the Catholic South.

Political and religious leaders throughout the province condemned guerrillas whose land mine killed five civilians on a mountain road Tuesday.

Jack Lynch, prime minister of the republic, also assailed "the evil perpetrators of this malicious and cowardly deed."

In a statement from his Dublin office, Lynch said Ireland would be reunited only by peaceful means and condemned "any group who advocate or use force, whether it be for the reunification of our country or to maintain the status quo."

Police in Belfast said they suspect saboteurs were responsible for a big fire in a timber yard Tuesday. The flames shot more than 100 feet into the air, threatening the harbor district, and more than 70 firemen were called out.

City Board Adopts New Diploma, Course Revision

Graduates of Circleville High School in 1972 will receive a different diploma from that which has been given by the school for the past eight or nine years.

This was the word Tuesday night as Circleville City Board of Education voted to adopt new measures in curriculum study and graduation policies recommended by the teaching staff and administration.

Teachers in the local school district feel that there is too much pressure on students today to follow the classical or college preparatory course of study for prestige rather than to take courses which they could enjoy and profit by. Beginning, 1972, a new style of diploma, completely eliminating notation of the students' major study in high school, will be presented to graduating seniors.

A new policy will be followed in baccalaureate and commencement programs also eliminating this procedure of separation. Recognition of honor graduates would continue by appropriate designation on programs and with awarding of honor cords as in the past. There will simply be no reference to college preparatory, general, industrial, home economic, or business areas of study on graduation certificates.

IN discussion on the issue, Superintendent Fritz Jacobs noted that the diploma was not used by colleges or most employment without a check being made at the schools on the student's performance in high school using his permanent record on file there. An employer or school uses this method to see if a student has completed the requirements he seeks.

Circleville teachers and administration and the board hope to erase the apparent social stigma forcing students into an area to which they are not suited.

Along with this, the board adopted a new form for curriculum explanation. The new totally revised and consolidated copy eliminates complicated reference to college bound requirements by setting up graduation requirements of two majors and two minors. A major consists of three or more units of credit in one subject area such as English, social studies, math or science. A minor is two units of credit of one subject area.

Recommended curriculum guides will still be available so each student may see at a glance the maximum offerings available in the field of his choice. All courses offered at his grade level will be listed separately so he may conveniently deviate from the standard form.

At present, Circleville offers eight different major areas of study including math-science major and liberal arts in the college preparatory area; home economics; industrial; secretarial, clerk-typist, vocational in business studies and general education.

Also new this year is a policy allowing students to add or drop full year subjects up to three days after distribution of first six week's grade cards. Previously the date set for transfer was Nov. 2. In this way, educators hope to create as little catch up work as possible when a student enters a new course.

MEETINGS have been scheduled for students prior to enrollment for the 1971-72 school year to explain the new forms.

The board has tentatively adopted a school calendar for the next school term. Opening and closing dates will be August 31, 1971 and June 1, 1972 with holidays scheduled for Labor Day, Pumpkin Show, Thanksgiving, Christmas, Washington-Lincoln Birthdays (one day), Easter and Memorial Day.

In other business, the board approved work to be done on a heating system in a supply room in the new Atwater addition. The room is being used as a part-time reading classroom and speech therapy room. A bid by Circleville Metal Works was accepted for $170 to lower existing heating units and install an additional four feet to the heater.

Approval was given to purchase new elementary science text for grades 4, 5 and 6 this year and complete the series with grades 2 and 3 next year.

A date of Mar. 5 was set for opening bids for window replacement for the junior high school building. Work on three sides of the building were completed last year.

Mrs. Sandra Henn and Mrs. Louise Carle were added to the substitute teachers list for elementary grades and high school French and English.

Present at last night's board session were President R. L. Brehmer Jr, Ruth Crist, Tom Elsea, Dale DeLong, Forrest Brown, Jacobs, Elementary Supervisor Donald Metzler and clerk Mary Ellen Rader.
